Britain and Italy Sign Friendship Pact Today

SIGNATURES OF DIPLOMATS TO EASE TENSION

Anglo-Italian Accord Reached As Czechs Renew Desire For Nazi Understanding.

EYE SPANISH STRIFE

Observers See Loyalists Keep On Fighting Despite March To Sea By Insurgents.

(By Associated Press)

Britain came to terms with Italy today, Czechoslovakia reiterated a desire for understanding with Germany and Germany looked with more than casual interest on reports that Britain and France were buying, or trying to buy, large consignments of planes from the United States.

While this jockeying for position went on in European diplomacy and war preparedness, Spain's insugents, having sliced government territory in two, attempted to widen the breach.

War Not Over Yet.

Planting of the insurgent red and gold on the Mediterranean shore between Barcelona and Valencia did not promise an immediate end to the war. It seemed likely that government Spain would struggle on like the two halves of a severed earthworm.

The Anglo-Italian accord, previously approved by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini, needed only the signatures of Il Duce's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, and Britain's ambassador, the Earl of Perth, to put a formal end to tension which in the last three years had brought the two powers to the verge of war. (Signing scheduled for noon EST).

France was expected soon to follow Britain's rapprochement lead, the better to deal with a powerful Adolf Hitler at the other end of the Rome-Berlin Fascist axis.

Italy's press carefully pointed out, however, that renewed British friendship in nowise replaced collaboration with Germany.

Feverish preparations continued in Rome for a grandiose reception to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, who is to visit Mussolini May 3.

It was indicated today that Hitler may go at least to the edge of Vatican City when he visits Rome May 3.

Decorations Ordered.

This interpretation was taken from an order by the Fascist merchants union to stores along the main streets leading to St. Peter's to decorate their windows.

HEROISM AT SEA

Praise Engineer Who Saved 8 Lives By Dash In Fire.

BOSTON—(AP)—The heroism of ship's Engineer Forman Spinney was credited today with having saved eight lives besides his own as the fire-swept Boston trawler Exeter sank 50 miles south of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia.

Word of the rescue was flashed by radio from the coast guard cutter Algonquin, as she sped back toward Boston with the survivors.

Destroyed down to the water line, except for her forecastle, the Diesel craft Exeter went under in view of her captain, J. Vernon Nickerson, and her rescued crew of eight men, all of Greater Boston.

The Algonquin's radio told the story of Engineer Forman Spinney's dash through a flaming engine room yesterday to shut off the Exeter's engines so boats could be launched before they burned.

Ye Sports Ed Takes Look at New Easter Bonnets for the Ladies and Tells You About 'Em In Sport Lingo

And to Keep Things Even the Gal Reporter Does Her Darnedest In Describing the Male's Spring Raiment

By OSCAR RUHL

(Sports Ed, caught off base, trying to describe women's hats.)

IT IS PERMISSIBLE in the sports writin' business for a guy to administer a literary slap whenever he thinks one is necessary.

If you don't like the way a fighter fights, it is not against the ethics of the business to say so, even though you may not know a left hook and jab from a hook and needle.

The baseball team may not be winning, but you know what is wrong with it. So, you tell your readers the shortstop and center fielder are not speaking. They tiffed, the dopes.

You explain in what you consider expert fashion that the home football team didn't make the touchdown in the last quarter because the quarterback called his girl's telephone number in the huddle instead of the off-tackle play signal.

That's how we do it in the sports writin' business (and get away with it, too . . . . sometimes).

It has always been a mystery to me why they don't handle stories in the same style in other editorial departments.

How About This, Fashion Ed?

In the fashion department, for instance. Why shouldn't the fashion editor be permitted to tell just what she thinks (if she thinks)? You know, constructive criticism stuff . . . . and cover up what you can't explain with big words (not in the dictionary).

But no. She says: "The Parisand hat is a flower-trimmed sailor of rough straw, and how beautiful it looked on the model (the lug, she probably meant.) It tilted over the right eye (the good eye, she should add) at an intriguing (she meant cock-eyed) angle. . . ."

So knowing my pet gripe, it will not be difficult for you to understand my delight in being assigned to write a preview of the Easter bonnets that will be paraded tomorrow in front of ashamed but timid husbands. Gawd help the wimmin.

I've looked at blonds, brunets and red heads and their hats (including the atrocious green turnip the wife's going to make me admit I like), and they all look alike to me . . . . terrible.

The Awful Details.

For instance, take that hat . . . the Breakfast model, I call it. It has everything but eggs and bacon scattered over a plate-like frame. From appearances, all it would need to make a good breakfast is salt and pepper.

Then there is the Hitler model, which is just about as big as der Fuehrer's Charley Chaplin mustache, and could even be missed if one didn't take a second look. The Raised roll looks like a circle loaf of bread that yeast never raised.

Then there is that one that looks like it had spring fever. Just looked like it was flat on its back.

A TRIM TOQUE

This is an Easter hat, of the kind that Sports Editor Ruhl has burst forth into ecstasies—or has he? Anyway, this is what is called a "toque." Those things on the top are made of ribbon and are called pinwheels. Actually, it isn't as extreme as some of the models Ruhl has described.

By JANE WILLIAMS

(Getting even with analysis of what the well-dressed man will wear.)

ASSIGNING a feminine scribe to "cover" men's Easter fashions is just plain reckless, savoring a little of giving Junior a stick of dynamite and a box of matches to keep him quiet. Men have been so downright nasty, so utt-ter-lee heartless in their comments on women's hats this season that a chance to get back at them is inviting war. Your weapons, Oscar? I'll take giggles and sneers.

Let's start with men's hats.

The bird on Nellie's hat has flitted over to Johnny's, and it now reposes on colorful gros grain or felt rope bands on the up-to-the-second masculine headgear for Easter. The bird, we hasten to add, is a tricky little affair of metal which looks perfectly darling on the masculine chapeaux. And if you haven't the courage to wear the bird for fear of getting "the bird," you can sport one of those gay and insouciant Tyrolean feathers. Ducky, eh, wot?

Hats, of course, must match suits or blend with them as to color. And as for the ultra colors in suits—it's every man for his own shade of green. There's pea green, apple green, bottle green (in suits, yet!) hunter green, grass green, spruce green, elfin green, woods green, sage green, olive green and—well, what we mean is that GREEN is the preferred color for men's suits this spring.

The really terrific ensemble is a spruce green suit, a sage green hat with an elfin green band, and a hunter's green top coat. (I get seasick, just thinking of it)

To be in the mode there must be pleats in the masculine pants; cunning little pleats that give him that flat look where men

MALE, DRESSED UP

If we could print this picture in color, it probably would be green, since that is the predominating color for men this spring. At least, Jane says so, and she is supposed to have asked qualified experts about it. Note the stripes—very, very good. And the brighter the green, the better—if you can stand green.

Groom West For Governor Race in Ohio?

Capital Observers Hint He May Make Contest Three-Cornered.

The possibilty that Charles West, one-time congressman from the 17th district (which includes Richland county) would be a "dark horse" candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio was seen today in Washington, Associated Press dispatches to The News-Journal said today.

The dispatch said Washington observers saw that implication in a visit of Senator Robert J. Bulkley and John Owens, Ohio CIO leader, to the White House yesterday. After the conference, Bulkley and Owens said they had discussed the Ohio political situation "in general."

Informed sources, however, were quoted as saying that they had sought the president's advice on whether to seek a Democratic candidate for governor who would have the backing of the CIO, or the support of "all groups."

Three-Way Race.

It was these sources, according to the dispatch, which said that West, now undersecretary of the interior, was under consideration as a "dark horse" to oppose Gov. Martin L. Davey, seeking a third term, and Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman and former lieutenant governor.

It was indicated that another conference would be held to reach a decision.

CIO leaders have repeatedly attacked Davey for sending national guardsmen to Warren, Youngstown and Canton during the Republic Steel strike, but have not publicly expressed their attitude toward Sawyer.

West was an unsuccessful candidate for the senatorial nomination in 1934, running as a New Deal candidate against former Governor George White and Senator Vic Donahey: The latter won the nomination and election in the fall, while West ran third in the primary contest.

His appointment to the undersecretaryship of the interior department, a newly-created post, followed. However, West has been acting chiefly in the role of a liaison man for the president, seeking to keep the house "lined up" for New Deal legislation. For a time, recently, he was not conspicuous, but renewed his activity in a vain attempt to prevent the house from killing the reorganization bill.

CONGRESS TO OPEN HEARINGS ON WEDNESDAY

Hopkins To Be Called As 1st Witness In Discussions On Huge Spending Plan.

PRESSING FOR SPEED

Administration Agencies Open Up Way For Small Business To Bolster Finances.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders, eager for quick action, considered today drafting an "omnibus bill" to carry through congress President Roosevelt's main and public works recommendations for spending to end the recession.

Chairman Taylor (D., Col.) of the house appropriation committee, indicated this procedure might be followed when he announced hearings would start Wednesday. He said Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins would be the first witness. Hearings should be completed, Taylor said, by May 1.

The largest item in the big bill will be the proposed $1,250,000,000 for relief for the first seven months of the fiscal year beginning July 1.

$450,000,000 for PWA.

What other items will be included was under study. It was expected, however, to contain an allotment of $450,000,000 for public works grants to cities and states and whatever additional appropriations and authorizations may be necessary to provide for works loans.

Informed members said it was virtually certain the housing authority would need additional powers to carry out the proposed new $300,000,000 slum clearance program.

Administration agencies and congress acted yesterday to hasten other phases of the program.

The federal reserve board cut by about one-eighth the reserve funds formerly required of banks, thus increasing the total of money they have available for lending by about $750,000,000.

Previously the treasury had released gold credit amounting to $1,392,000,000.

Methods Simplified.

The securities commission, in line with recommendations in Mr. Roosevelt's recovery message, simplified registration procedure to make it easier, faster and cheaper for small business firms to issue stocks and bonds.

In congress some phases of the program which it was considered desirable not to include in the omnibus bill received prompt attention.

The senate appropriations committee approved the proposed $50,-

'Peace Before Death Takes Me,' Pope's Wish in Easter Prayer

(By International News Service)

VATICAN CITY—Weakened by the weight of his 81 years, saddened by the woes besetting a strife-torn world, Pope Pius XI expressed today his one last wish.

It was that before death overtakes him he will see peace and good will restored throughout the nations of the earth.

His intimate family alone heard the fervent prayer for peace from the lips of the venerable holy father of Catholic Christendom.

For the first time since he fell gravely ill a year ago, the Pontiff called his relatives to his private apartments. They found him resting in preparation for the lengthy Easter services tomorrow and he greeted them with these words later given to newspapermen:

"Before death takes us away, we desire from the Almighty the high favor of being privileged to see the world steer a course toward peace on the basis of mutual understanding, social justice and charity."

Those present at the family gathering included the Pontiff's sister, Camilla Ratti, his nephews and their small children. To the latter the Pope gave Easter presents.

To his family the Pope gave his blessing and then they left him alone so his strength might be conserved for the arduous tasks facing him tomorrow.

He is much weaker than he was a year ago. And of late has suf-

SEEKING CURB

Big Navy Bill Foes Want To Cancel Dreadnaught Clause.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Opponents of the administration's "big navy" bill centered their efforts today on an attempt to eliminate authorization for three 45,000-ton super-dreadnaughts.

"If we can't defeat the bill, we may at least be able to stop the building of more battleships," said Senator Nye (R-ND), a leader of the bloc which contends such vessels are unnecessary except for a campaign of aggression.

The senate naval committee approved the $1,156,000,000 expansion bill by a unanimous vote yesterday, but three Democratic members who did not vote—Bone of Washington, Gillette of Iowa and Holt of West Virginia—said they would oppose it on the floor. The measure may come up for debate Tuesday.

BAR ENDORSES JUDICIAL SHIFT

Votes 11 To 9 To Back Plan To Have Judges Appointed Rather Than Elected.

By a vote of 11 to nine, the Richland County Bar association yesterday endorsed the proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for the appointment of supreme court and appellate court judges by the governor instead of by popular vote. At the same time the association approved a plan for obtaining 4,000 signatures in the county to place the issue on the ballot in November.

The motion favoring the proposal was submitted to approximately 30 members of the county bar at a session at the courthouse by Atty. William F. Black.

It was understood that three members of the group voiced opposition to the proposal, and several did not vote when the issue was presented. Major opposition

'LINDY ISLAND'?

London Hears Flier Bought Tract To Build Laboratory.

LONDON —(INS)— Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has purchased the island of Illiec off the French coast of Brittany, according to a Reuter report today.

The report said it is believed Lindbergh will use the island for scientific research and construct a laboratory there.

Woodland Water Job Runs Into New Snag In Bonding Measure

City council ran into another snag on the $75,000 Woodland water project last night over a section of the bonding ordinance that grants bondholders the right to operate the waterworks in case of default. The franchise is incorporated in a measure authorizing the sale of $64,000 in mortgage revenue bonds designed to finance the project.

Following a motion for the immediate passage of the bill as an emergency measure which was defeated, a lengthy discussion which at times became heated, resulted in council authorizing City Solicitor Marion D. Ward to take the measure before consultant attorneys for approval.

The vote on the motion was 5 to 3, lacking two votes of the necessary three-fourths for passage was an emergency measure.

Voting for immediate passage were James E. Crum, Lester D. Hunter, George C. Kyle, C. N. Shultz and Russell D. Porch, while George Berg, Harry Emmons and Fred Miller opposed the issue. Sixth ward councilman Arthur L. Croak was absent.

Councilman Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, said later that the franchise clause was somewhat unusual and that he thought it was worthy of further study and consideration.

"It is a deep question," Shultz said, "and leaves us in an embarrassing situation. We have prom-

2 PATHS OPEN

Davey Can Request Jurors To Reconsider Bradley Case.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A county grand jury no-bill on perjury charges Gov. Martin L. Davey brought against Lee Bradley left open to the governor two courses of action if, as he announced, he prosecuted "to the very end."

Through counsel Governor Davey said yesterday he was "not through with this matter by any means."

Legal sources said the governor had these alternatives:

Request Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan to represent the case to the grand jury, or—

File a perjury charge against Bradley in Franklin county (Columbus), where the Cleveland salesman gave most of his testimony before the Ohio senate's "legal graft" investigating committee.

ASSURED FUNDS

Housing Committee Voted $100 By Council For Survey.

The Mansfield housing committee today was assured of the necessary funds to conduct a slum clearance survey here after city council last night authorized legislation to provide for an appropriation of $100 to meet a part of the cost.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter told council that the local housing committee at a meeting with county commissioners yesterday had been assured that the county would go along on a 50-50 basis on the cost of the survey.

"If we can get a $1,000,000 slum clearance program here it will be the biggest thing that Mansfield has ever seen," Hunter said. "We have talked about plans for providing for employment for WPA, but this is a project that will employ more men than any two or three federal projects we ever had."

Weatherman Still Insists Easter's To Be Rainy One

That strange and persistent fellow, the weatherman, predicted rain for Easter on a national scale today, repeating his warning that if you want to be properly dressed for the Easter parade, you'll carry an umbrella.

The Ohio forecast was the same as it has been for the past four days, "Cloudy, probably showers tonight and tomorrow."

Despite that, Mansfield hasn't had any rain all week.

But a national forecast today said rain would fall tomorrow in three-fourths of the states. It predicted that about the only exception would be Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Texas, Missouri, Kansas, southern California and Nevada. In those states, the Easter parade won't be bothered. But you'll note Ohio isn't on the list.

Meanwhile, Mansfield basked in temperatures of 74 at noon, with a bright sun overhead. That was two degrees better than yesterday's high.

SEAMEN LEAVE CANADIAN JOBS

700 From Seven Companies Answer Union Strike Call.

TORONTO—(Canadian Press)—The strike call of the Canadian Seamen's union was answered by 700 sailors at seven Canadian ports today as union offiicals undertook to tie up vessels of seven Canadian shipping companies operating on the Great Lakes.

Union officials said the strike call was answered at Toronto, Kingston, Fort William, Montreal, Owen Sound and Collingwood.

The union expected the number of strikers to be tripled over the week-end and to involve 150 vessels. At the start, 26 ships were affected.

FIGHTS DEATH

Convicted Ohio Banker To Undergo Operation Next Week.

Jackie Coogan's Lawyers Chuckle As Process Servers Win Battle of Wits

'Crash' Gates to Serve Papers In Suit for Four Millions.

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD — There were chuckles in Jackie Coogan's legal camp today and a broken gate in the big front fence encircling the mansion of his mother and stepfather whom he is suing over the $4,000,000 he contends he earned as a child movie star.

Ending a game of hide-and-seek that lasted three days, two deputy sheriffs broke open the electrical gate, forced their way into the house and served subpoenas in the bedroom of Mrs. Lillian Coogan Bernstein and her husband, Arthur L. Bernstein.

The subpoenas require the mother and stepfather to appear in the offices of Jackie's lawyers Monday to answer questions for a deposition about their handling of the millions for which young Coogan has said he sacrificed his boyhood.

After process servers had been unable to get nearer the Bernsteins than the electrically locked front gate, Jackie's lawyers obtained a court order for deputy sheriffs Carl Reis and Floyd Tumbleson to serve the subpoenas—by force, if necessary.

The deputies telephoned the house from the gate when they reached the Bernstein home in Van Nuys. A maid told them:

"They're not at home."

"Here we come," the deputies said. They crashed through the gate.

They received no answer to

GUARD ALLEGED MURDERER OF 3

Sheriff Fears Mob Violence On Man Who Plotted 14 Deaths.

LEWISTOWN, Mont. — (AP) — Sheriff E. J. Dolve said today he would hold Lee Simpson, confessed slayer of three men, in jail here until public feeling against the 50-year-old ranch owner subsided.

Dolve, sheriff of Golden Valley county, said he feared an attempt might be made to lynch Simpson if he were taken to Golden Valley county jail at Ryegate.

Sheriff Guy Tullock of Lewistown, to whom Simpson surrendered yesterday, said Simpson confessed last night to the three slayings and said he listed 14 other persons for death because he believed they were plotting to steal his ranch property.

Richman to Wed Ex-Showgirl, Sail for Europe.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Hazel Forbes Richmond, blond former showgirl, will become the wife of Harry Richman, radio and stage entertainer, tonight at Richman's home here.

County Judge W. F. Blanton will perform the ceremony. Tomorrow night the couple will leave for New York, to sail Wednesday for Europe.

ACCOMMODATING STORK

OGDEN, Utah — (AP) — It was father who raced the stork—and won. While an expectant mother lay on a blanket in front of a hospital, the frantic father-to-be staged a hurried campaign to raise a $30 entrance fee. He had only $15 but rounded up another $15 before the stork arrived.

FIND GEM CACHE

Cemetery Workers Discover $86,000 In Jewels Stolen In Florida.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla.—(AP)—Federal agents said most of the jewels found buried in a cemetery here were taken from the Miami Beach home of Major Albert Warner, motion picture producer, in an $86,000 robbery last February.

About $75,000 worth of the Warner gems were recovered, the agents said. Convicts cleaning the cemetery uncovered the cache.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

MANSFIELD BUSINESS WOMEN TO ENTERTAIN

Club Will Be Hostess at One-Day Convention to Be Held Here Next Sunday; Delegates From Fifth District Groups Expected.

ONE WEEK from tomorrow members of the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club will be hostesses to the Fifth district when the convention is held here at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Members of chapters in Ashland, Brooklyn, Bucyrus, Cleveland, Elyria, Galion, Lakewood, Lorain, Loudonville, Millersburg, Orrville and Wooster will be among the guests and members of the other clubs are also expected.

The convention will open officially April 24 at 9:30 a. m. with registration in the Chinese room. A Sunday morning forum will follow with Mrs. Grace Downs giving the devotions and members of the Galion club offering a musical program.

There will be a discussion of club problems by the various presidents during the Sunday morning session. Miss Pearl Von Au, state president, will preside and Mrs. Mary Barrick, Galion, district director president, will conduct the Sunday discussion.

Offer Playlet.

A playlet entitled "Membership Metabolism" will be given by Miss Georgiana Chidsey, Julia Bevier, Miss Nina Pollock, Margaret Wheeler, Mrs. H. K. Sellick and Helyn Brown during the morning.

At 12:30 p. m. luncheon will be served in the ball room. Mrs. Falsom B. Teeter, Mansfield president, in charge. The program will include music by Miss Helen Britton, Galion, and the Mansfield Glee Club. Miss Ella King Vogel, Somerset, Pa., will be guest speaker. Miss Vogel is a retired teacher and humorist who has visited Europe 16 times and attended the Geneva International conference, International Business and Professional Women's Clubs' congress and the World Federation of Education association in Honolulu, Dublin and Oxford.

Saturday night arriving delegates will be greeted and entertained informally by the Mansfield group. Those in charge of hospitality are the Misses Pollock, Minnie Laudon and Marie Kalbfleisch.

Registration is in charge of Miss Mae Douglass, Miss Mary Gruber, Miss Helen Herring, Miss Marjorie High, Mrs. Clyde Vail and Lena Colgan. Decorations for the luncheon table will be supervised by the Misses Emma and Bertha Reinewald.

Seated beside a window in her home on South Main street is Mrs. R. F. Miller, president of Tourist club, one of the older organizations in the city. In addition to heading the study group Mrs. Miller is a member and past regent of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. She was instrumental in the organization of the chapter in 1918. At the right is the former Miss Margaret Fisher, who became the bride of G. Milton Priess last Saturday noon in the St. John's Evangelical church. Mrs. Priess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher, 25 Buffalo street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Priess, Nakomis, Ill.

HONOR BRIDE-TO-BE AT INFORMAL AFFAIR

Miss Pauline Thrush Entertained by Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Misses Barbara and Mary Parkison at Shower Friday Night.

PRECEDING the marriage of Miss Pauline Thrush which will be solemnized Sunday at 3:30 p. m. at the First United Presbyterian church, a miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower was given last night at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Smith by Mrs. Smith and the Misses Barbara and Mary Parkison. Miss Thrush, who is the daughter of Glenn Thrush, R. D. 4, will become the bride of Richard Parkison, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parkison, Lexington.

Twelve guests were entertained at the affair which honored the bride-to-be. Hearts and cootie were played with prizes being won by Miss Dorothy Davis and Miss Thrush. The honoree was presented with the prize won by Miss Davis.

Later the gifts were presented to Miss Thrush and a luncheon was served to the guests. The engagement was revealed several weeks ago at a Saturday evening party given by the sister of the prospective bride, Miss Leona Thrush, at the family home.

—Advice—

Forget Him If He Can't Marry Girl

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am writing to you for advice and hope you can help me. I am a young girl of 18, and have been going with a boy six years my senior. He is everything a girl could want in her husband. He is kind, considerate, nice looking, plays a guitar and is the life of a party.

"His only fault is a weak heart, and the doctor does not see how he has lived this long. I love this boy dearly and he has told me that he feels the same way. He says he could never marry, as he cannot work and support a wife. He thinks it is best for us both if we quit, and says that I should find myself a nice boy friend, but I know that is impossible. We broke up just before Christmas and I kept company with other boys and tried to forget him, but I couldnt, for I still feel the same. We are now going together again, but he thinks it best if we don't go steady. What shall I do?

DISCOURAGED."

I don't see anything for you to do but to go with other boys and try harder to forget this one young man, Discouraged. You can see for yourself that if he cannot work and support a family he cannot marry, unless he is willing to wed a girl and have her support him for life. I am sorry, as this young man is so ideal in every way, but there is nothing else I can advise.

You are sure the boy's heart is as bad as he says, are you? Has the doctor told you about his condition? I don't want to distrust the doctor or the young man, but it is proverbial that a "weak heart" is a good excuse for not doing a good many things that one doesn't want to do. I have also known many folk with weak hearts who lived to be old. Possibly, too, there might be room for disagreement among doctors. Has he consulted several physicians? Is this young man sickly looking?

If the answer to all these questions still is that the young man's heart is too weak to allow him to do anything to earn his living, you will have to be brave and decide to go with others and definitely put him out of your life, insist upon marrying him and supporting him —which I presume he would not agree to—or never marry and just be good friends as long as he lives. These are the alternatives. Sorry I cannot be more comforting.

J. B. went with a boy from her high school days and became engaged to him. However, she went to work in a hospital, and there she met another boy with whom she fell in love. The first boy heard of this and went to the hospital and the two had a fight.

Then J. B. was operated on and some time afterwards she heard that this second young man had left his job. She has now found out where he is, and it is not far from the hospital in which she works. One of her girl friends saw him recently and he sent his love to J. B. She loves him and wants to know if I think she should try to see him.

Well, my dear, I would say from what you tell me that the young man you are in love with doesn't feel he should come between you and your first boy friend. If he wanted to see you he could do so very easily, couldn't he? He is near enough. Maybe he is afraid of the other boy, or doesn't want to have any more fights. Why don't you break your engagement to the first boy and make it plain to him that you are free to have other friends? Then let this boy know, and it is then up to him.

J. F.: I think that if a man likes a girl very much, he can hardly help showing it. If he tries to "keep her in suspense," as you put it, his love isn't very deep or unselfish. He thinks more of himself than he does of her.

So, I think you will be wise if you just forget about him—although I know that is more easily said than done.

My Neighbor Says:

Tomato seedlings that have been planted in the house should now be transplanted into a cold frame. Plant seedlings about four inches apart.

Do not let hardwood floors get badly worn before having them polished. A little polish on the worn places each week keeps floors always looking well.

Favored Fashions

Panel Frock Attractive In Either Party, Play Design.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Now that summer is on the way you've undoubtedly discovered that your young daughter needs more new frocks. So order Pattern 9614 today and stitch up this cunning dress. It will be grand for the rest of the school term and will be a favorite play dress right through the summer if you make it up in a practical plaid or a gay flowered print. This same style looks adorable in dotted swiss or organdy for party wear. If it's to be for "best," omit the collar and trim the bodice with ribbon bows. Use dainty lace to outline the panels and to edge the pert little wing-like sleeves. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart is included.

Pattern 9614 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 View B requires 2⅜ yards 36-inch fabric.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Write for Marian Martin's new book of spring patterns. Better hurry, for you'll want a new printed frock to slip into on these first balmy days. This book is full of gay designs that will give you a lot of bright wardrobe ideas . . . Many of these styles are designed to carry you straight through the summer . . . and all of them are patterned for easy making at home. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together twenty-five cents.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

MIXING THEM UP

WHEN A SUIT declarer sets up a long string of cards on which to take discards, the order of events is generally one of two diametrically opposed ways. Either trumps are run first, then the suit set up and run, or else the side suit is built up first and then the trumps are drawn. There are times, however, when the two things are done virtually simultaneously, with alternate leads of the two suits.

	♠ 10 9 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ 8 4 ♦ A ♣ K Q 10
♠ J 8 7 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 8 5 3 ♣ 6 3 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ A K Q ♥ K Q 10 9 ♦ K Q J 9 ♣ 7
	♠ None ♥ A J 7 ♦ 10 6 4 2 ♣ A J 9 8 5

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

On this deal the bidding was opened by East with 1-Diamond, South called 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, East 3-Diamonds, South 4-Clubs, North 4-Diamonds, and East 4-Hearts, which South doubled. North went 4-Spades, which East doubled. Then South bid 5-Clubs, North six and South 7-Clubs, which East doubled.

The diamond 8 was led by West and won in the dummy. A spade was led and ruffed and the dummy entered by means of a trump to lead another spade. A second round of clubs was won in dummy and a third spade ruffed, setting up the remainder of that suit. The club J was overtaken by the K and four spades cashed. On the eleventh trick, East held the hearts K-Q and the diamond K, and South the hearts A-J and diamond 10. As South discarded after East, he won the remaining tricks.

South's bid was a bit daring, but North's diamond bid indicated no diamond losers and good trump support, so that the chances for success seemed favorable.

Monday's Problem.

	♠ K 8 7 6 2 ♥ A Q 8 4 ♦ 10 5 ♣ A Q
♠ Q 10 4 3 ♥ J 3 2 ♦ 9 8 7 2 ♣ 4 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ J 5 ♥ 10 9 6 ♦ A K 4 ♣ K J 7 6 3
	♠ A 9 ♥ K 7 5 ♦ Q J 6 3 ♣ 10 9 8 5

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

With the diamond deuce led against South's No Trump game, and the 5 played from dummy, what card would you play in the East, and what would you do next?

THEATER

HIS followers will hear Bing Crosby sing a new type of song in his coming picture, "Sing You Sinners." At least it will be new to his motion picture audiences but not to Bing. With Fred MacMurray and Donald O'Connor, (a new boy actor) Crosby sings "Shall We Gather at The River?" an old, favorite hymn, which they use in a church scene. Later in the picture he goes back to his crooning. But this isn't the first time that he has sung sacred songs, for he was a member of the boys choir of St. Aloysius church in Spokane, Wash., when he was a youngster. "Sing You Sinners" isn't finished yet, and the song may land on the cutting room floor, but it would be interesting to hear the crooner sing "straight" just once.

"Fools For Scandal."

The midnight show shifts to the Madison tonight where the Carole Lombard-Fernand Gravet comedy, "Fools For Scandal" opens a four-day run. A light and gay romance of London and Paris, directed by Mervyn LeRoy, "Fools For Scandal" tells of an American movie star who visited the two great European cities under an assumed name. A handsome young count, also incognito, is hired (by accident) as her chef. Gravet will be remembered as the likeable young Franco-Belgium actor who came to America last year to make "The King and The Chorus Girl" with Joan Blondell. His company admits it signed him because of his resemblance to the Duke of Windsor. Ralph Bellamy, who did an elegant piece of work in "The Awful Truth," and Allen Jenkins are the ones you'll care about in the supportng cast.

"In Old Chicago."

This sweeping epic of the Chicago fire and its effect on the lives of the O'Leary family, opens today at the Ohio for five days, with a star-studded cast. The three-stars — Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche—are supported by Alice Brady (who walked off with the acting honors,) Andy Devine and Brian Donlevy. Everyone knows that Mrs. O'Leary had a cow, because the cow kicked over the lantern which started the fire, but it wasn't generally known that she had three scrapping sons, who'd fight each other as quickly as they'd fight for the other, until Darryl Zanuck made the picture. Tom Brown is the third son. Out of the ruins of Old Chicago, there grew a new city, and out of old quarrels there came a new understanding between the brothers O'Leary.

"A Night Of It."

Pretty June Clyde and Claire Luce give Buddy Rogers something to think about in "Let's Make a Night of It," which the Majestic offers as its main attraction Sunday and Monday. A social register family that has long turned up its aristocratic nose at night clubs, suddenly finds itself in possession of two—both sub rosa. Papa receives one as payment on a debt and mama is sold a bill of goods without knowing what it is. Daughter cuts herself a piece of romance with a band leader, and in the end everyone is happy about the whole thing. There is music and singing. A Western, "Call of The Rockies," with Charles Starrett, supplements the program.

"The Last Gangster."

Edward G. Robinson's dramatic picture of the last gangster is a fitting subject for him since it was he who introduced the first movie gangster to the public in "Little Ceasar" years ago. The Ritz shows this interest-holding movie for three days, starting Sunday. Rose Stradner, European newcomer has the role of the gangster's wife, while James Stewart is seen as the newspaper man who covers the gangster's trial. In lighter vein is the second feature, "No Time To Marry," which was made from Paul Gallico's Saturday Evening Post story, with Richard Arlin, Mary Astor and Lionel Stander.

Informal Wedding Attire

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am wearing a street dress and a hat with a little veil. In other words, I am not going to look much like a bride. But I should like very much to carry a white family prayer book, which has been carried by all the brides in my family. They, however, have all dressed in white and wore veils. Do you think it very unsuitable to carry this book?

Answer: I would rather suggest that you put a temporary cover on the book, of velvet or of brocade or of whatever would be most becoming in color to your dress. You probably covered your school books in this same way.

Dear Mrs. Post: The question of bag and gloves grows in importance every day as my wedding approaches. I don't think it would have been half as difficult arranging to be married dressed as the traditional bride. But instead I am dressing in ordinary afternoon clothes, as is my attendant. We are having about 25 or 30 relatives and friends at the church. We are having corsages instead of carrying bouquets. But this leaves our hands absolutely unanchored unless we may carry bags. Our dresses both have sleeves just reaching below the elbows and no doubt gloves would look better than without. Wearing gloves will present no problem for my attendant, but what can I do about mine? If I rip the ring finger, as is, I believe, customary, when the bride is wearing real wedding clothes, then I can't use the same gloves on our wedding trip. It seems such a waste of money to buy two pairs of gloves for the same dress. So, will you write about the bag and gloves?

Answer: Under the circumstances you should wear gloves. It should not be difficult to pull your glove off, especially if you take your time to do this. Then hand it to your maid of honor. It is quite all right for you to carry a bag if you want to, and if you do hand this to your maid of honor with your glove. On the other hand, you might follow the direction given in the answer above and cover a prayer book in material that goes with your dress, and carry that. Regardless of what you choose for yourself, however, your maid of honor should carry a bag.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a wedding where only 60 guests are expected at the church, do you think it necessary to have ushers?

Answer: It will not be necessary to have ushers if you tell each person exactly which pew is to be his. Unless you do this, however, most people are going to hesitate to go very far up front and all the best seats will be left empty.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"It sounds like a perfectly good scheme," I said as Mary appealed to me for my opinion upon her plan for "lamping" the conspirators against Dicky who, ignorant of our presence, had been quarreling upon the other side of the restaurant booth partition.

"There's only one thing," I added hesitantly.

"Name it," Mary answered, involuntarily raising her voice to a tone which could have been heard through the comparatively thin wood of the partition. Then she clapped her hand over her mouth with a childish gesture.

"I'm awfully sorry," she whispered. "Paddle me hard when you get me home, won't you?"

"If you do it again, I certainly shall," I returned, smiling at her nonsense in spite of my uneasiness concernnig this unnamed sinister menace to my husband. "But suppose they know our faces, won't they realize we've overheard their colloquy?"

Sure They Won't Know.

"It's a thousand to one they won't know who we are," she said with a confident air which made me wonder uneasily just how much knowledge of the sinister pair was in her possession. "And if they do, how will they know we've come from this restaurant? We'll be near their entrance, remember, and they'll know we didn't pass them or come from their side of the place. And there are several shops near here which might have been our exit. And even if they should guess we came from the restaurant, they probably wouldn't figure Old Man Coincidence was working overtime enough to give us an adjoining booth. Nay, nay, darling aunt of mine; all we have to do is to preserve the blank baby stare, and watch from beneath our lashes in the manner which you have down so pat. But I do want to get a good look at the man with that dotty dame — not so dotty either, I fear," she added ruefully. "She's shrewder than she sounds. Wouldn't you like a good lamp at 'em?"

I gave an involuntary shiver.

"No, I wouldn't," I said truthfully. "But I agree with you that we must look them over carefully so that we may be able to recognize both of them again when we see them."

Mary Grateful.

"Then that's that," Mary answered with a ludicrous, little sigh of relief. "I was so afraid you'd put the kibosh on my plan."

"I'm not likely to do that, Dearest," I told her ruefully, "for I seem incapable of making any coherent plan of my own."

"That's because this has knocked you for such a goal," she said commiseratingly. "Coming out of a clear sky this way, it's enough to make anybody woozy."

I made the mental comment that she was not at all "woozy," and remembered her saying that she "knew something" about the woman who, in an apparently drunken frenzy, had called Dicky up at the Lansfield, and was even now plotting against him on the other side of the partition. But I did not voice my thought. I guessed that her admission of "knowing something" had been an inadvertent one, and that she would not amplify it unless I asked her to do so, a question that in my present mood was impossible for me to put.

Desserts Arrive.

"Here comes the crepes Suzette again," she said in a tone that betrayed she welcomed the diversion, and when she had asked for the check, paid it and adequately tipped the waiter, she took up her fork with a ludicrously contented, little sign.

"Come on, let's dig into this scrumptious mess," she said, "hoping against hope we'll be able to finish before those brutes on the other side of the partition. I may be mistaken, but I'll bet the man, at least, has a lunch counter technique."

"I don't think their dessert has come yet," I said, and Mary blew me a kiss.

"You're the most comforting relative a starving girl could have," she said, and I joined her in leisurely epicurean enjoyment of the delicious dessert.

It was not until we had finished them and were sipping our demi tasses of black coffee that we were galvanized into action by the voice of the man on the other side of the partition.

"For the life of Mike! how long do you take to finish a meal anyway? I want to get out of here. I got a date."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, April 17.

Sunday's horoscope holds signs of many disagreeable and adverse situations affecting the private as well as the business life. Quarrels, dangers, robbery, loss and hidden menaces make a day calling for extra watchfulness and precaution. The mind may be keyed up to a nervous or irresponsible pitch.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of conflicting or disagreeable situations, with loss, robbery, subtle dangers and strife. The mentality may have irregular or eccentric leanings tending to aggravate adverse conditions unless it be turned in the direction of invention or creative ideas of a unique or novel slant.

A child born on this day may have a high-pitched or erratic temperament which might be turned into invention of novel or unique objects, or the writing of an unusual type of romantic literature. It may have a difficult, extravagant and bombastic nature, although it may be generous and kindly.

For Monday, April 18.

Monday's Astrological forecast is for a day of rather contradictory conditions, with the promise of the breaking away of old obstructions and stagnant matters to make way for some rather important progress on new plans. But the latter seem to be beset by financial hazards or other elements of danger.

Those whose birthday it is may expect some very alluring opportunities to develop during the year, following the removal of some tenacious obstacles or other frustrating circumstances. Through prudence and good judgment, a welcome stabilization of the fortunes is possible, even though there are hazards of loss and heavy expenditure.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and adventurous, with inflated ideas and much optimism. But it should likewise have sound judgment and much stability, attracting the aid of elderly friends by their dependability and worthiness in perilous situations.

Today's Recipes.

BAKED STUFFED POTATOES. — Six medium potatoes, white or sweet; two-thirds cup scalded irradiated evaporated milk or bottled sweet milk, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon butter. Scrub potatoes, oil skins with an unsalted fat to keep them soft. Bake in hot oven 50 to 60 minutes. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise, remove inside without breaking the skin, mash, add milk, salt and butter. Beat until light and creamy. Refill skins, piling mixture in lightly. Reheat and brown in moderate oven, for about 20 minutes.

SPONGE CAKE—One and one-half cups flour, two teapsoons baking powder, two tablespoons cornstarch, three-fourth teaspoon salt, six eggs, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, one and one-half cups sugar, one-fourth cup water, one tablespoon orange juice. Sift flour and measure. Resift with baking powder, cornstarch and salt; repeat three times. Seperate eggs, beat whites until foamy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff but not dry. Beat egg yolks and sugar until thick and creamy. Add water. Fold in white of eggs gently, then flour, then orange juice folding it in. Bake in ungreased tube pan in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Invert on wire rack and cool in pan.

Smith Still Counts on City For Ohio State League Team

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD baseball fans have just about given up hope of being represented in the Ohio State league this year, but President Harry Smith of the Class D circuit is still counting on the city for a team.

The Boston Red Sox, who operated in Mansfield last year, are definitely out of the picture, but Smith sends along word that he is now dickering with another prospective sponsor.

As revealed some days ago, the prospective sponsor is Buzz Wetzel, who is associated with the Indians of the Springfield club in the Mid-Atlantic league.

Just how much time Wetzel will need to make up his mind about Mansfield has not been stated, but he will have to reach some decision in the very near future as the schedule will open May 11.

If Wetzel, backed by the Indians, should take over Mansfield, Chappie Geygan, who managed Marion in the circuit last year, will in all probability pilot the team, according to Smith.

According to the league president, Wetzel and Geygan have already conferred on the Mansfield situation.

It is no secret that Geygan would like to come to Mansfield. He indicated this last summer, and he might be able to encourage Wetzel to take over the franchise.

Geygan drew a 90-day suspension from Judge Landis for attacking an umpire during the play-off last fall, but it has been withdrawn, Smith said.

The suspension was to have gone into effect at the start of this season.

STEVE DUDAS

HAMBURG, Germany — (U.P.) — Max Schmeling, who hopes to be the first man ever to regain the world's heavyweight championship, was a prohibitive favorite to defeat Steve Dudas, New Jersey veteran, tonight in his last tuneup fight before meeting Joe Louis in June.

None of the fight critics expected Dudas to last longer than 12 of the scheduled 15 rounds. Promoters expected a sell-out crowd of 23,000.

Preceding the Schmeling-Dudas go, big Ben Foord of South Africa will tackle the German, Walter Neusel. Foord stayed 12 rounds with Schmeling in January.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American manager, predicted "Max will knock him out in eight rounds. I never saw him in better shape, and that's saying a lot because there never was a more faithful man in training."

Despite the general feeling that the American is just a chopping block for Max, Dudas was optimistic. His manager, Billy McCarthy, who managed Schmeling from 1928 to 1933, said "Dudas is in tip top physical condition. He can take it and he can dish it out. I consider his chances better than Schmeling's when Maxie beat Louis two years ago."

Schmeling declined to reveal when he would sail for the United States to train for Louis. Jacobs has suggested that he leave this month.

Season's On Now

Golf Campaign Opens Officially at Westbrook, Coolridge Courses Today.

By CHARLES MARTIN

TODAY marks the official opening of the golf season in Mansfield.

Two of the city's three golf courses, Westbrook Country club and Coolridge Country club, were in readiness for the annual charge of the troops.

Work at Possum Run.

At Possum Run, workmen are going at top speed in an effort to have the layout in first class shape by the middle of the week.

Greenskeepers at Westbrook and Coolridge were busy this morning putting the finishing touches on the fairways and greens as the clubs prepared for what is expected to be a bumper season.

Although the official opening is not expected for several days, Walter "Irish" McGee, new Possum Run manager, announced that golfers will be permitted to play over the week-end.

All three courses anticipated record crowds as shotmakers open their annual war on par.

Numerous Mansfield shotmakers have taken advantage of the excellent weather to unlimber their trusty clubs, and many near-par scores are expected to be turned in.

Fill Vacancy.

Vincent Tipel and Sylvester Kleshinski will share the duties of assistant pro and caddy master at Westbrook this season. The change was made to fill the vacancy made when Steve Schemine went to Columbus as pro at the York Temple Country club. Schemine was assistant pro at the course for several years.

At Coolridge, Art Fovargue and his son, Art, jr., will comprise the club personnel. The club roster at Possum Run has not been announced.

Senators, Red Sox Hosts at Openers

NEW YORK—(AP)—The clients having been worked into a suitable lather by as fancy a lot of spring ballyhoo as Connie Mack, the oldest inhabitant, ever saw, the 1938 big league baseball campaign at last is on the verge of getting down to business.

It starts with a swo-o-sh at Washington on Monday afternoon, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to watch a couple of very long shots, the Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics, bang each other about. At the same time, up in Boston, the champion New York Yankees will begin what looks like another grand march, against the Boston Red Sox, weather permitting. Only the two tilts are on Monday's program, but on the following day the cannonading will become general on all fronts.

Prizes, emblematic of city championships, were presented to the winners following the conclusion of the minor shifts at the drives last night.

Get Tie Holders.

The awards, presented by The News-Journal, were silver tie holders.

The Maintenance club of the Ohio Brass league won the five-man championship, Seltzer and K. Swank annexed the doubles crown and N. Swank won the individual title. The check-up on the all-events has not been completed.

A 3101 total won the team championship for the Ohio Brass club, with Lumbermens Mutuals second with 3058.

Only one team rolled last night, and it gained third place with a 3040 count. It was the Jackson Potato Chips, which was aided by a 348-pin handicap. Geiger led the Chips with a 620, minus handicap.

Seltzer and K. Swank won the doubles title with 1322 pins. Yingling and Craig rolled into second place last night with a 1284 crown, the latter contributing a fat 654.

Gain Fourth Place.

The only other change in the doubles saw Leppo and Sonny Meder go into fourth place with 1261. Leppo shot 640.

The only change in the singles was made by Charley Gimble who upset 675 pins, with a 48 handicap, to go into a tie for the runner-up position with Barney Banks. N. Swank won the individual crown with a 697 count.

Students Stage Ticket Contest For Track Meet

A ticket selling contest for the Mansfield Relays, which will be held at Stadium field next Saturday, will be staged by students of Senior and Simpson Junior high schools, next week, Dr. W. E. Wygant, chairman of the Citizens committee, announced today. A prize will be awarded the winner.

Tickets prices for the relays range from 40 cents for adults to 15 cents for high school and junior high students and 10 cents for grade school students.

Adds Opener To Title Card

Nolan Signs Steele, Clifford For First Match.

Tim Nolan today completed Monday night's Quality club wrestling card which will feature a world's light-heavyweight championship bout between Champion Frankie Talaber of Chicago and the Great Mephisto, a former title-holder.

He announces that Francis Steele, Plymouth motorcycle officer, will meet Flash Clifford of Peru, Ind., who formerly aided Clyde Beatty in training jungle cats in winter quarters, in the opening match.

In the semi-final match, "Gentleman Jack" Claybourne, Chicago colored grappler, will meet Otis Clingman of Amarillo, Tex., a former cow puncher.

Talaber and Mephisto collide in a two-fall, 90-minute time limit bout, bringing to this city the midwest's leading contest of the week.

The Quality club likewise stated today that there would be no revision in its usual policy of "ladies free." Feminine followers of the sport will be admitted without cost if accompanied by escorts. There will be no advance in the price scale.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION INAUGURATES SEASON

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The odds today were stacked against the Columbus Red Birds retaining their American association championship as the campaign was inaugurated in three cities in the eastern half of the league.

Columbus entertained Kansas City in its first contest; Milwaukee was at Toledo; and Minneapolis at Indianapolis. The St. Paul-Louisville opener will be played tomorrow.

639 Athletes Already Filed For Relays

Entry Of Individual Likely To Be More Than Doubled.

The number of athletes to compete in the 12th annual Mansfield relays at Stadium field a week from today will surpass the figure set by Director Harry Mehock, according to present indications.

The day the entry blanks were mailed to 1,600 schools, Mehock stated that he expected about 1,000 athletes to participate in the track and field carnival.

But Mehock's estimate was mighty low, it now appears.

Many to Hear From.

Not half of the schools expected to compete this year have filed entries as yet, but 639 athletes have already been entered by 49 schools.

As few of the schools which compete annually with large squads have not turned in entries, Mehock now believes his estimate will be bettered by a good-sized margin.

The team entry was swelled to 49 today, the entries including 12 from foreign states.

Only three of the out-of-state entries have competed here before. They are River Rouge and Saginaw Eastern of Michigan and Erie, Pa., academy.

The other foreign entries were received from St. Mary's of Mt. Morris, Jackson Eastern, Jackson Senior, Flint Northern, Birmingham, Ferndale, of Michigan; South Hills of Pittsburgh and McKees Rocks of Pennsylvania, and Newport, Ky., which is the first Kentucky school ever entered in the competition.

A total of 16 out-of-state schools have entered, but almost twice this number is expected to appear in the competition next Saturday.

Three File Entries.

Columbus schools have entered the relays only at intervals, but the entries today included three, Central, East and South.

Other Ohio entries filed today include Columbiana, Bryan, Chillicothe, Ashley, Milan, Lockwood, Fremont Ross, Akron Garfield, Alpha, Strongville, Attica, Bellevue, Kilbourne, Upper Arlington, Toledo Scott, Republic, McGuffy of Oxford, Glendale, Monroeville and Galion.

CLEVELANDER TO MAN 'MIKE' AT RELAYS

J. N. Richards of Cleveland, widely-known announcer of athletic events, will be at the microphone to keep spectators informed of developments at the Mansfield Relays at Stadium field next Saturday.

Richards, who announced the bouts at the recent Golden Gloves tournament in Cleveland, is director of the Playground Association of Cleveland.

Canzols Plan Drill Sunday

The Ira D. Ling Canzols baseball team will hold a practice session at the Fairground at 2 p. m. Sunday, according to Manager Jeff Holmquist. Holmquist requests the following players to report: Harper Au, Willard Lockhart, Fred Buzard, Bob Bogantz, John Linta, Howard Patterson, Lawrence Smith, Nick Ziegler, Henry Kyler, Adam Baker, Karl Theaker, Merle Diehl, Joe Smollen, Kenneth Dent, and Neal Buzard.

Other players 19 years of age or under wishing tryouts are requested to report to Holmquist at the field Sunday. A practice game will be played at 3 p. m. Sunday.

BRONKO WINS AGAIN

SALT LAKE CITY—Bronko Nagurski, 235, International Falls, Minn., defeated Chief Little Wolf, 225, Trinidad, Colo., two straight falls.

DEFENDING CHAMPION FAILS IN A. B. C.

CHICAGO — (AP) — The last of the defending A. B. C. champions to appear, Gene Gagliardi of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., bowed out yesterday. Far from making a strong bid for a second singles crown, Gagliardi posted 535, a score that will not even share in the 3,488 prizes.

Home Fans Get First Look at Tribe Today

Feller to Start Against Giants at League Park; Indians Drop Wierton Game.

By GEORGE E. MOISE, International News Service Sports Writer.

CLEVELAND—The Indians came home to League park today, travel-weary and glad to find a big league ball park and rooms with baths.

Today they play the first of their final two exhibition games with the New York Giants. Bobby Feller was to pitch seven innings, while Mel Harder will oppose Carl Hubbell tomorrow. Yesterday they lost their third straight to the Giants, 8 to 4.

Johnny Allen, who is to start the American league season against the Browns Tuesday, was hit for three runs in the opening inning and two more in the sixth, while Al Milnar and gigantic Mike Naymick gave up the rest.

Crowd Greets Club.

Frankly glad to be back from what Oscar Vitt called a "two-week Cook's tour," the Tribesmen almost ran down the dark platform of Cleveland's East 55th street station to be met by a crowd of 300 die-hard fans who waited several hours for the special train from Weirton.

Vitt did not get off the train with the team, but rode on down to the old Union depot. Earl Whitehill veteran pitcher, stayed on one of the Indians' Pullmans with the manager. The Giants also went to the downtown station.

On arriving in Cleveland the players scattered; some went to their own homes, some to the homes of friends, and the rest to hotels. Only Vitt and Whitehill went to the official hotel here, the hotel in which visiting American league teams stay. Rollie Hemsley was already there.

The Tribesmen were delayed somewhat at the station by the fans, many of whom were local sandlotters. Some wanted autographs and some just wanted to look at the ball players, but all of them were on hand to greet the Tribe.

Riding from the east side station to downtown Vitt was noncommittal on the team's chances in the championship season.

"I've got a ball club that's in condition," he said. "The pitching is a little better than satisfactory. I've got a problem at second base, but what do you want in a ball club?

Hale's Arm Still Bad.

"It's a long season, and a lot can happen in a long season."

Vitt said that Sammy Hale's arm seemed to remain in bad condition, in spite of the Hot Springs treatments and the tonsilectomy. Hale's arm a headache in the past, promises to plague the new manager as it has others.

Because of the bad throwing wing, Vitt said he probably will start John Kroner at second base in the opener against the Browns Tuesday. Hale's batting prowess, however, almost outweighs the throwing weakness.

"If the arm comes around," said Vitt, "I'll use him."

With the exception of the second base question, the opening game lineup will be practically the same as that which started against the Giants yesterday, Vitt said.

VITT GOES BEFORE JUDGE LANDIS TODAY

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Manager Rogers Vitt of the Cleveland Indians was to appear [illegible] Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis [illegible] team officials [illegible] hearing of [illegible] with the New York Giants in Longview, Tex., last week.

Vitt left the party from the field when Rookie Umpire Claude Roban gave Ole Moore a two-base hit on a fly Julius Solters caught in a left-field crowd. Tobin said a ground rule gave Moore the hit, while Vitt argued vehemently that Solters had made the catch and the out.

MT. VERNON WINS MEET, NOT STREAK RESERVES

Due to an error in the compilation of totals, the Mansfield high reserves were incorrectly announced as winners over Mt. Vernon in a dual meet Thursday. Mt. Vernon won the meet by a 59 1-3 to 58 2-3 margin.

Book Tough Diamond Foes

Hi-Speeds To Open Season With Sandusky May 1.

The Mansfield Hi-Speed semi-pro baseball club will face some tough opponents during the 1938 season.

Starting off with the opener at Blue Goose field May 1, the Hi-Speeds face the touted Sandusky All-Stars. The All Stars' lineup includes several former Ohio State league players.

The club has booked home and home games with the Akron Junior Yankees, the same club which last season won 63 of 86 games, finishing a successful year by copping the last-half championship of the Akron City Class A league.

Other clubs scheduled to appear here include the Wadsworth Merchants, defending Tri-county league champions, and the Poschke's Barbecues of Cleveland. The Cleveland team is one of the powers in the Cleveland City league, having finished second the past two years.

Believe Rule Changes Help

COLUMBUS — (AP) — C. Carl May of Portsmouth, state commissioner of the Ohio Amateur Softball association, predicted today that several rules changes, all aiding offense, would make the game more popular than ever this summer.

The big change, May said, was that the "bunt" would be allowed this year. Another forces the pitchers who must use the underhand delivery to "follow through" with the hand and wrist past the straight line of the body before the ball is released. Jerky or 'snap' release of the ball back of the hips is forbidden and the hurlers may not wear white or light gray uniforms.

ATLANTA (A) — Billing Burroughs, (S) Pascagoula, Miss., knocked out Eddie Gallo (S) Mexico (S).

Ex-Mansfield Stars Ready for Season

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BALL PLAYERS who carried the Mansfield banner to the Ohio State league and Shaughnessy play-off championships last year are doing right well for themselves in their new uniforms, according to letters received by John Newton and other Mansfield friends from the diamond stars.

Some of the boys are not ready for advancement, but still remain in the Boston Red Sox chain.

Pitcher Al Viegel has been released to Clarksdale, Miss., to Moultrie, Ga., where he joins Manager Dewey Stover, First Baseman Roy Lee and Catcher Foster Beaman.

Third Baseman Lonnie Haulbrook, who was transferred from Mansfield to Rocky Mount, N. C., has been sent to Clarksdale.

Lonnie, according to reports is still hitting the ball hard but his fielding is somewhat shaky. He is expected to win a steady job at Clarksdale soon.

'Sparky'

Sparky Sparticuso, the most popular player in the Red Sox camp last year, is having some trouble at Clarksdale, but has been hitting the ball like a demon.

Infielder George Biershenk and George Schniedmuller are also with Clarksdale, and "Gawgie" has won himself a job. It is feared that Schniedmuller may go the way of Viegel.

Reports from Moultrie are to the effect that Manager Stover is encountering a little trouble in rounding out a team. He's weak at shortstop, and he has already asked Billy Evans for Steve Vesek, who is at Rocky Mount.

THE neck injury that laid Andy Gilbert low in mid-season has not affected the hard-hitting infielder in his fight for a job at Danville, Va., where he has Frank Stinson and Blackie Rochevot as teammates. Stinson, who came to Mansfield as a first baseman, is being converted into a catcher.

Johnny Barrett, Steve Patras and Hal Cheney are with Hazelton, Pa., at the training camp in Gastonia, N. C., and doing right well, thank you.

The Fellowship of Prayer
Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Saturday, Easter Eve, April 16. "I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do." Read John 17:1-6.

There is in the Wisdom of Solomon a noble passage which says: For honourable old age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor that is measured by number of years.

But wisdom is the grey hair unto men, and an unspotted life is old age.

He, being made perfect in a short time, fulfilled a long time.

The life of Jesus defies measurement by any of our ordinary canons. One has often heard the wish voiced that Jesus might have lived longer and told us more.

But is any religious life ever "finished" in its linear measure of years or in its weight of achievement? There is always more that might have been done. In particular, in a time when the causes which we serve are patently so much longer than our own expectation of life, can we ever hope to finish what we, as Christions, are now doing? Religion defies and eludes all such quantitative measure. It knows only a qualitative perfection which is "finished" with each word and deed. The life of every Christian must be, in the order of nature, arbitrarily ended on this earth some day. It will be at that time still incomplete, but need not be unfinished.

Prayer: Help us, O God, by manifesting thy name unto the men who thou hast given us out of the world to finish with each act and with each day the work which thou hast given us to do. Amen.

Easter Sunday, April 17—"Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 20:29.) Read Matthew 28:1-8.

Christians have often been charged with a kind of spiritual selfishness because of their belief in personal immortality. The charge is unjust.

The average Christian is far more concerned to know that the lives of the good and great, and the lives of those whom he has loved and lost, are not ended with death, than he is to prove his own immortality.

But beyond all this the Christian founds his faith in the life hereafter upon his thought of God. He accepts impersonally, the truth that "God created man to be immortal, and made him to be an image of his own eternity." What we believe about immortality is not an independent article of our creed; it follows from the Christian conception of God. Whether we even desire immortality or not is almost beside the mark. In ways which we cannot define, or even imagine, life immortal is for the Christian part of the whole fabric of a divinely ordered universe. The substance of the Easter story is what we should expect of One who is "not the God of the dead, but of the living." Therefore, uncurious and untroubled, we confront the mystery of the hereafter with quiet confidence, saying, "With God be the rest."

Prayer: Almighty and Eternal God, who willest that we should have life and have it abundantly, fit us for that life more abundant than any we now know, which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, but which Thou dost prepare for them that love Thee: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

$50,000,000 IN USED CAR SALES IN ONE WEEK!

There Was A Big Selling Job to Do and

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING DID IT

Early in 1938 the automotive industry had a major problem on its hands. Production was off. New car sales were low. Prospects for Spring, normally the peak season in automobile sales, were discouraging.

The underlying cause of all this was that the automobile dealers had too many used cars in stock . . . for dealers can't sell new cars when they are overburdened with used cars.

The problem therefore, was to sell the used cars—and to sell them fast.

To solve the problem the automobile manufacturers of the United States called upon the selling power of newspaper advertising. They instituted a National Used Car Exchange Week, March 5 to 12. They appropriated $1,250,000 for one week's advertising. They invested the bulk of this money in newspaper space throughout the country. They enlisted the active co-operation of the automobile dealers.

And what happened, In one week's time $50,000,000 worth of used cars were sold. Dealers' used car stocks were greatly reduced. In some cities the week ended with a shortage . . . and dealers began to advertise that they wanted to buy used cars.

(and in Mansfield)

Mansfield took an active part in this nationwide campaign . . . in the one week period, sales in used cars increased 50%—bringing emphatic praise of the tremendous job advertising in the News-Journal accomplished.

And that's not all. The used car campaign in newspapers caused an immediate increase in new car sales; cleared the way for still greater sales for Spring; pointed to a definite upturn in car production; put new life in the automobile industry; brought millions of dollars into circulation.

What does it all mean? It means one more dramatic and convincing proof of what has been proven so many times before: when there is a real selling job to be done, newspaper advertising can be counted upon to do it . . . quickly, tangibly, directly, economically . . . for automobile advertisers, or for any other advertiser.

DINE TUESDAY

150 Signed Already For 'Y' Father, Son Gathering.

One hundred-fifty boys and their fathers have made reservations to date to attend the annual Y. M. C. A. father and son dinner at the "Y" Tuesday evening, Ralph B. Chapman, "Y" secretary, announced today.

Dinner will be served in the gymnasium at 6:15 p. m., and will be followed by a program including the presentation of athletic awards for table tennis, handball, basketball and rifle shooting. Individual emblems will be given to members of the Friendly Indians and Pioneers, two boy groups at the "Y."

Members of the Y. M. C. A. various "Y" groups and boys who attended the "Y" camp last summer, have been invited to attend. Arrangements have been made to take care of 300 at the dinner.

George Smith is general chairman of the dinner with awards in charge of C. F. Rayburn, Irl Fisher in charge of decorations, while the program is being arranged by Harold W. Arlin and Harvey Bailey.

It's Odd
But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—When a poisonous snake bits a man, the man's life is in danger. But snake venom can be injected into a man by hypodermic—which does not greatly differ in principle from fangs—not only without risk but also with beneficial effects.

Moccasin venom is one of the new, medicinal snake poison. It is used in high dilution; one part of venom in 3,000 parts of saline solution. This diluted venom can be administered in amounts up to a cubic centimeter daily.

After 10 to 14 days of daily administration, a person becomes hypersensitive; that is, the venom shows its angry effects. Yet even these are mild; usually confined to a hot tender swelling at the site of injection.

Moccasin venom stops internal hemorrhage. This fact has made it a lifesaver in certain cases. Most recent of the cases is cancer. Sometimes a patient dies of hemorrhage with internal cancer long before death would otherwise occur.

The venom not only has put off death in a case of this sort, but also has sent the patient back to work.

SPEEDERS FINED

2 Admit Reckless Driving Charge, Assessed $10, Costs Each.

Silas W. Getz, 38, of Clifton boulevard, and Clarence Bemiller, R. D. 2, Lexington, were fined $10 and costs each in municipal court yesterday when they pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Getz was charged with operating his car at 50 miles an hour in a 35 mile-an-hour zone on Lexington avenue while officers testified that they chased Bemiller to Alta before they caught up with him.

Joseph McCartney, 346 West Fourth street, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to have an operators permit and was fined $3 and costs.

ASKS $5,000 IN TRAFFIC SUIT

Father of Injured Girl Brings Action Against Autoist.

A suit for $5,000 damages for injuries she suffered in a traffic accident in Mansfield last Nov. 24 had been filed in common pleas court today for Miss Betty Jane Potts against Joseph E. Monastere, 19 Spring street.

The action, filed by Miss Potts' father, Herman Potts, because she is a minor, charges Monastere was responsible for a collision between a taxi in which Miss Potts was a passenger and Monastere's automobile at Fourth and Mulberry streets.

The petition states that Miss Potts' vision was impaired as a result of a head injury she suffered in the accident and that she received injuries to her chest and legs.

INDUSTRIALS SET PACE IN BRIEF SESSION

Push Up Fractions To Three Points As Business Reports Encourage Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading industrial stocks pushed up fractions to 3 points in today's early market proceedings.

At an active start prominent gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Loew's, J. I. Case. Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda and Kennecott. Rails and utilities were slightly improved.

Aiding shares of building material companies were the figures of F. W. Dodge Corp. for March disclosing construction contract awards made the best comparative showing for any month since December and, with the exception of that month, were the highest since last August.

Cheering to recovery proponents were reports the print cloth markets have again turned active with sales for the week estimated at about 42,000,000 yards, or more than three times the current rate of production.

Followers of the motors noted that the week's automobile output, while about half that of the same period a year ago, was up over the preceding week. Sales of new cars were said to have expanded substantially.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—Numeraous bids were being received in the Boston market yesterday on the finer grades of western grown wools but many of the offers were below the prices mills and topmakers have been paying for current needs.

Fair amounts of graded French combing length fine territory wools have been moving at 63 to 66 cents scoured basis. This class and grade of wool has been one of the more active lines in the past few weeks and the continued demand has kept prices fairly firm.

Farming Operations Sound Says Connor

Mr. Clarence Connor, of the C. Connor Realty Company returned yesterday from Newark where he attended a meeting of mortgage loan solicitors of The Prudential Insurance Company of America. The meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Company's Indiana Branch, was attended by mortgage men from all parts of the state.

According to Mr. Connor, mortgage loan activity is continuing at a high rate. Those attending the meeting reported a continued demand for mortgage money and an increasing interest in the advantageous financing terms now available for farmers. It was indicated that many farmers throughout the state are expanding their operations through the acquisition of additional land, while others are refunding their mortgage obligations in order to take advantage of the low interest rates currently available.

According to Mr. Connor's account, the meeting was addressed by Thornton W Sterrett, manager of the branch, who said The Prudential is eager to advance even more money for agricultural development in this section. The Prudential is so thoroughly convinced of the soundness of our farming operations, said Mr. Sterrett, that the company is writing its loans at unusually low interest rates and on highly attractive terms.

D. C. Drake, assistant manager of the office, outlines the trend of mortgage loan activity over the past few years. Although the depression had caused a decline in farm loans, as was expected, the last three years have shown a steady growth in both new loans and refinancing, he said.

In a round-table discussion of the outlook, all of those attending the meeting agreed that the present outlook is thoroughly satisfactory. The moisture conditions are satisfactory and crop prospects are equal to or better than at any comparable time within the last several years to the plan came from Attys. George W. Biddle, Joseph A. Bayer and Raymond J. Brown, it was said.

BAR ENDORSES JUDICIAL SHIFT

Votes 11 to 9 To Back Plan To Have Judges Appointed Rather Than Elected.

Copies of the resolution adopted by the association yesterday were sent to the Ohio Committee on Judicial Selection and to the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce

Backers of the proposal in the state who need 350,000 signatures on petitions to put the amendment before the voters, failed to obtain the required number last year. More than 225,000 signatures already have been obtained, however, according to the State Committee on Judicial Selection. The Richland county quota was set at 1,000.

Atty. W. H. Gifford, who worked for the plan last year, is county chairman of the Judical Selection committee.

The plan calls for selection of the judges from a list of nominees to be submitted by a judicial council, with appointments of the governor to be confirmed by the state senate.

HATS FOR MEN GET THE BIRD

From Gal Reporter, As Well As From Designers Who Put Ornaments on Them.

should be flat. And there MUST be a zipper. Since this is a frank little chat among us boys, we may as well come right out and say that pants without zippers this year are—well, doggone it, look at those magazine ads with and without zippers, and see for yourself.

Pants are shorter, too. Honestly. Not way up to here, of course, but shorter. And now let's skip along to the coats. That graceful drape line which came into being a year or so ago, is still very much the vogue. (Don't ask me—I don't know a drape line from a clothes line.) Sleeves taper. They do, so help me. From full, broad shoulders, they taper down to the wrist.

Those Gorgeous Topcoats.

Topcoats this spring are so gorgeous that they fairly knock you out at first sight. (But of course you can get used to them. You can get used to anything.) They are shorter and fuller. And green. Oh, definitely. The ultra-ultra modish ones are green with delicate lines of scarlet or autumn brown or wheat yellow (I AM telling the truth!) But all shades of gray and smoky tans and browns are very good too. Conservative, of course, but good.

Come we now to the shirts. And here, my friends, is where Monsieur Fashion hands the knockout blow to Madame Fashion, as my so crude sports-writing contemporary would say. She, in her navies, browns, grays and modest tans this spring, looks like a wren in comparison with a brilliant jaybird. Those dark, definite colors in shirts are OUT—positively. No more brown, dark blue and maroon. Shirts are in pastels and "smokies;" very pale shades and smoky rose and blues, with lavenders bordering on wistful violet, lilac and pansy. Doesn't it all sound heavenly and just too utterly utter?

Ties and handkerchiefs and socks MUST match, but you can go hog-wild on colors. Shoes are—ah, me!—dove gray and doe tan.

Gentlemen, there's your spring ensemble. Take a look. (Note to Oscar: You can suffer your wife's hats all you please but if the head of the Williams Clan gets himself up in a pea green suit, a sage green coat, a hat with a bird on it and a smoky rose shirt, you'll be seeing a jolly little society item under the "Courthouse Calendar" stating "Williams vs. Williams. Charge, emotional insanity and clash of artistic temperaments."

ASKS RECEIVER

Partner in Lumber Concern Seeks Dissolution of Partnership.

Dissolution of the Beer and Miller Lumber company at 341 East Fourth street as a partnership business and appointment of a temporary receiver for the firm are sought by Nick Miller, Mansfield, one of the partners, in a suit on file today in common pleas court.

The petition, which names Robert H. Beer defendant, states that the partners are unable to agree on the management of the business and asks that the receiver be instructed to keep alive contracts for furnishing materials to the firm.

YE SPORTS ED ON EASTER HATS

They're Something Fearful And Wonderful To Behold, He Discovers.

The Skyscraper model takes on the appearance of the Empire State building with all the windows open. And the funnel type . . . . well, it's air-cooled.

No Holds Barred.

Virtually no holds are barred in the hats. In addition to those mentioned are sailors swathed in veils with waist-length ends, giddy little pill-boxes, clown (Ringling Bros.) cones and tilted bits of headgear.

I could go on and on about these things they call hats, but space forbids. Frankly, they're just silly willy looking affairs, and I can really sympathize with the man whose wife must be in style.

Women will show other new dress accessories Easter. They, too, will set the men agape, if they're able to get their minds off the goofy hats.

Blue will be the predominating color, I'm told. The shades will range from the dirty blue of the ocean on up to the sky . . . or higher.

And that's my impression of the Easter styles . . . . so help me.

Congress Leaders Seek To Open Hearings Wednesday On Huge Spending.

000,000 increase in the Civilian Conservation Corps allotment for 1938-39. It previously had received house approval.

House leaders arranged to write a $37,000,000 increase for flood control projects into the war department's pending non-military appropriation bill.

Taylor predicted the house would accept Tuesday the president's recommendations for an increase of $100,000,000 in the previously proposed $100,000,000 1939 road appropriation, writing it into the pending agriculture department appropriation bill.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday he would send monopoly and taxation messages to congress very soon.

One administration senator predicted, however, that on monopoly the president would ask only appointment of a committee to study possible improvements in anti-trust laws.

The president's suggestions for taxing bonds and salaries raised considerable discussion among senators who believed a constitutional amendment would be needed to make such taxation possible.

Mr. Roosevelt said many lawyers thought the taxes could be imposed without an amendment.

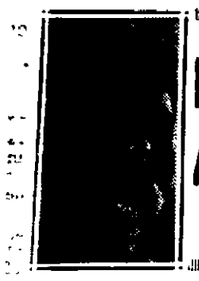
Russian Frontier Closing Seen As Possible War Move



Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

ONE of the tremendous forces which carries Christianity on in a scoffing, sophisticated, thrill-satiated world is that nations and individuals will always turn to it in times of stress and trouble.

Not in our times, nor in the past several hundred years have nations and peoples been so sorely distressed as they are right now, so torn with internal strife and beset with external worries. Yet it seems to me that there is a definite turning of people toward the "old fashioned gospel," and the every-day people you meet are losing their self-consciousness when they speak of religion and the forces that represent Christianity.

Not only ministers, but thinkers and leaders in all walks of life are telling us frankly that the solution to many of our ills is a return to the tenets and principles of Christianity in the homes, and that parking your religion in the church on Sunday for the remainder of the week won't do.

HAD you noticed that this Holy week just past there was more material along religious lines in newspapers and magazines? That ministers left off writing and preaching (by radio as well as in churches) philosophy, economics and politics to get back to the fundamentals of the gospel?

A woman who is very blase and sophisticated in her manner of living said to me one day this week, "I guess I'm getting old, but somehow I get a sort of comfort out of hearing church bells ring. There is something homey and substantial and reassuring about the sound of them, isn't there?" And another woman told me of being in a Mansfield church recently when the minister knelt at the altar in the old fashioned way to pray. She was tremendously impressed and touched. "I haven't seen any one kneel on the floor to pray for so many years that I—well, I think my reaction was homesickness. My mind flashed back over the years—the kids and myself at home being scrubbed for Sunday school—the minister, not very scholarly but so terribly sincere—the rustle of leaflets and dresses when the minister said 'let us pray' and we all turned and knelt at our seats. My own youngsters haven't been going to Sunday school and I haven't insisted, but I think I'll start them again."

BUT what I started out to say is that Christianity can take an awful lot of body punches without going down. It can get kicked around with a lot of cults and "isms," but we always turn back to it. And so I think it will be through the centuries; people and nations may grow indifferent in cycles—but they'll come back to it as a child comes back to its mother and a thousand or ten thousand years from now people will be singing in Christian churches of the crucifixion and the resurrection.

OPEN LETTER to Service Director Tracy Styert: Dear Tracy: I know you are busy as anything and probably chewing your nails about the West Fourth street paving and I hate to bother you with trivial things, but couldn't you please do something about your street department? They're mixed up. They dump gravel, fix roads and scrape streets around midnight. And they talk and whistle and sing right under a person's bed room window. Having the paved street around your home scraped with a steel shovel all night long is NOT conducive to sleep. It's worse than the thousands of autos without mufflers, even if they ARE against the law. Your men dumped gravel, raced truck motors and turned headlights right into bedroom windows in Woodland the other night. And they tried to plough up the bricks in front of our house. Or so it sounded. Yours for greater silence in the night and lots of it, J. W.

"Reconciled" in that sentence has the same meaning as it does in "Hitler is reconciled to accepting Austria" or "Mussolini is reconciled to being the dictator of Italy."

JACKIE COOGAN, child movie star of a decade ago who made barrels of money and whose father invested it carefully and lived modestly so that his son would never have to worry again about money, is suing his mother and step-father for that money or some part of it. And they, in turn, vow that he shall never have a penny of it because it never was his, according to the newspapers.

If California law is similar to the Ohio law, they are within their rights; the money he earned before he was of age never was his, and his mother and step-father may live like millionaires on it while Jackie pounds out a mediocre living with small jobs in the movies. Of course there are names for people like that, but they aren't used in columns.

The law should be changed. It is barbaric that parents may wax fat off their children's earnings and make no preparation for the child's future. Freddie Bartholomew, who makes far more money than young Coogan ever did, has so many relatives living off his earnings that he can't even pay his income tax without a "moratorium" on his relatives. Young

Probably the reason there are so many crooks in America is because so many of our laws benefit them.

OFFICERS QUIZ 'URGE KILLER' AT YOUNGSTOWN

Michigan Police See Possible Solution Of Year-Old Crime With Youth's Arrest.

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN — Michigan state polices officers investigating a triple farm slaying in that state arrived today to question Norman Smith, 19, who confessed to Sheriff Ralph Elser he killed an Ohio farm family of three because he "simply had the urge."

The young farmhand was seized yesterday and confessed, Elser said, to the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumeister and the former's father, Theodore, last Jan. 4, about three weeks after he entered their employ.

He was captured near Edinburg at a farm where he obtained a job after a wandering flight through the midwest.

Sheriff Elser said Smith, native of Indiana county in Pennsylvania, confessed orally he had quarreled with the Baumeisters over wages, but in a written statement said, "I simply had the urge to kill."

'Tip' Leads to Arrest.

A tip from a woman who noticed Smith's resemblance to photos of the fugitive led to his apprehension.

Capt. Ira Marmon, chief of Michigan state police detectives, sent Detectives Joseph Pierce and Pat Dillon from Detroit to determine whether Smith might be connected with the year-old slaying of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Davis, aged 76 and 74, and Davis' sister, Mrs. Lydia Hildebrant, 72, near Fenton, Mich.

Captain Marmon said sufficient similarity existed between the Michigan and Ohio slayings to warrant investigation.

Smith's signed confession, Elser said, related that he felled Mrs. Baumeister in the barn with an iron pipe.

"I hit her several times," the statement read, "then I drew a knife and slashed her. I hid her body under some corn stalks. A few minutes later, Theodore entered and I did the same to him. I went to the house and waited 15 minutes for Henry to return home.

"When he entered, I pointed a shotgun at him and pulled the trigger. The shot hit him in the stomach, but he didn't fall right away. I grabbed the barrel of the gun and hit him over the head several times. The gun stalk broke."

TAFT SPEAKS AT CLUB LUNCHEON

Son Of Former President To Address Optimists Here Wednesday.

Robert A. Taft, son of the late William Howard Taft, former president and chief justice of the U. S. Supreme court, will address the luncheon meeting of the Optimist club Wednesday noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Taft, who served three terms in the Ohio assembly as representative and one as senator, is a candidate for United States senator in the Republican primaries this year. In 1936 he was a "favorite son" candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Considered an authority on taxation, Taft won distinction in the legislature for his efforts in budgeting cities and subdivisions so that they could not go in debt beyond their ability to pay. In the senate he was largely responsible for working out the present intangible and personal property tax laws.

Taft will speak on a non-political subject at the Optimist luncheon. Other service clubs have been invited to attend.

Following the luncheon, Taft will meet with Richland county Republicans from 1 to 2 p. m. in the G. O. P. headquarters in the Mohican building.

NEW STATISTICS

Red Cross Working On Two First Aid Outposts.

Work on two more Red Cross highway emergency first aid stations for the highways is under way, making eight in the county, Only two more are to be established to fill the 1938 quota, it was announced today.

Station number seven will be located at the Harbaugh-Canfield service station at the dangerous curve on route 13 where the Possum Run road branches off. A large class of residents of that vicinity started training today for the administering of first aid after an accident.

The eighth station will be at the Roxy Inn, Park avenue west road, according to Harker A. Enlow, first aid director. Residents in this district will begin training next week. Enlow said.

FATHER DIES

Samuel E. Stauffer, 70, Taken by Death In Canton Friday.

Samuel E. Stauffer, 70, father of Ernest H. Stauffer, 156 Poplar street, died Friday evening at his home in Canton following a lingering illness.

Also surviving are his wife, a daughter Verena, at home, and a brother Simon, of Mt. Eaton. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the family home and burial will be in Canton.

WAR VETERAN, 46, TAKEN BY DEATH

James Weidman, Stricken at Celina, To Be Buried From Lucas.

LUCAS—The body of James W. Weidman, 46, World War veteran and former resident of Loudonville, who died Friday night ot his home in Celina, following a lingering illness, will be removed to the home of N. K. Mowers here today where funeral services will be held.

A native of Canton, Mr. Weidman had lived in Loudonville for a number of years where he was in the dry cleaning business, later moving to Celina.

Surviving are his wife, Verda Vail Weidman, formerly of Lucas; two children, Betty Jane and James, jr., at home; two brothers, George of Celina, and Howard of Mt. Vernon, and a sister, Mrs. Mayme Myers of Toledo. Funeral details are incomplete.

CHANGES IN TRAFFIC CODE FOR INTERSECTIONS OK'D BY COUNCIL

To provide for better traffic clearance at downtown intersections, changes in the city's traffic code governing parking restrictions were approved by city council last night.

One change prohibits parking within 20 feet of the inside crosswalk line from the intersection, where the intersection is more than 24 feet wide. The old regulation restricted parking from the curb line, back 20 feet.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said the change had been called for in order to provide a uniform parking of the downtown intersections.

Council also trimmed the zone on East Fourth street at Main, and Main street south of Fourth street to 85 feet, from the inside crosswalk line and 50 feet from the inside crosswalk line on Main street north of Fourth. The limit had formerly been 100 feet from the curb line.

The parking ban on Marion avenue from Sturges to Gilbert street, invoked last summer, also was lifted.

Other business transacted by council last night included, authorization of the settlement of the claim of the Jewel Tea company for $6.50 damage to truck struck by city car; authorized payment of claim of Barbara Zimmerman, 204 Grace street, for $4.84 resulting to damage to glasses in fall due to faulty condition of sidewalk, authorized the establishing of the grade of Sloan avenue; approved ordinance to proceed with oiling of 251 unpaved streets and alleys in city; referred to street committee petition for the improving of the roadway on Coleman road between Marion avenue to Euclid avenue, and petition restricting parking to two hours on Park avenue east between North Adams and Hedges street.

2 CITY EMPLOYES FACING 'AXE' UNDER NEW CIVIL SERVICE RULES

Whether two city employes will be ousted because they may not have lived in Mansfield for one year prior to their appointment as required under new civil service regulations, was taken under advisement today by Mayor Claude M. Hunter.

No action on the cases of the two employes, one who has worked for the city for 14 years, was taken at a meeting of the civil service commission last night. The residential status of four other city workers which had been questioned under the new regulations, was approved.

Cases of Glenn Weller, draftsman in the engineering department for the past several years, in charge of WPA projects and Cloyd Pittman, repairman in the water department since 1924, were held up for further investigation until it has been determined whether they lived in Mansfield one year prior to their appointments, Freh F. Huber, chairman of the commission said.

He explained that the commission "wanted to be fair" on the question of the priority as required under the state civil service code in classifying all city employes.

Both men are living in Mansfield at the present time. It was pointed out that there was some question as to the length of time that Weller has resided here, while Pittman, Huber said, admitted that in the 14 years he has been employed by the city, he has only lived in the city proper for two years.

In the meantime Mayor Hunter said that both employes would remain on the payroll until the commission had reported its findings.

Those whose residence was approved, following the filing of affidavits attesting their one-year priority were Bert Hancock, inspector in the street department; Charles Krabill, truck helper in the garbage department; Fred Spamer, rodman in the engineering department, and Philo Phifer, garbage truck driver. Spamer, Hancock and Pittman are all under civil service at present.

BREAK CAMP

40 Scouts Return Home Today From Gatton Rocks.

Forty Mansfield Boy Scouts were to return home this afternoon from Gatton Rocks, near Bellville, where for the past week they have attended the annual scout spring camp.

Camp opened Monday morning, and was scheduled to break at noon today. The best weather for a spring camp in the past three years enabled the scouts to carry out their entire program of hikes to interesting places near the camp, and athletics.

The camp was in charge of Floyd Dent, area scout executive, and eight older scouts, David Walker, Albert Baerren, Albert Allen, Ralph Arlin, Richard Sowash, Blaine Sellers, Fred Lavender and Robert Burns.

DEATH CLAIMS A. W. FALKNER

Weller Township Resident Dies After Short Illness.

August W. Faulkner, 52, died Friday evening at his home in Weller township after an illness of several months. Born in Toledo, Aug. 1, 1885, Mr. Falkner spent the greater part of his life in this vicinity.

Surviving are a brother, Glenn of California, and four sisters, Mrs. George Schuchmann and Mrs. Earl Velzy of Mansfield, Mrs. Clara Bilsing of Colorado and Mrs. Henry Bilsing of California.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where private services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday with Rev. Herman L. Gilbert of St. Paul Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

TAKES STEP UP

Harry F. Boe, former Mansfielder who left here more than 38 years ago, has been made manager of the service department of the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, it was announced today.

Boe, who started to work in the plant as a coil winder in 1900, succeeds W. K. Dunlap, who retires. Boe is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and is identified with a number of New York City and Pittsburgh clubs.

Up and Down THE STREET

When the 12th annual Mansfield Relays are run off next Saturday at Stadium Field, the event will be staged without the familiar music of the Senior high school band. On that day the band will be in Columbus to compete in the annual state high school band contest at Ohio State university.

There are very few individuals who can take their regular business to the movies with them and keep right on working while looking at the picture. But Mrs. Anna Fisher, 188 Lind avenue, can. She is admittedly the city's fastest and most accurate knitter, and she can take a dress or sweater on which she is working to the movies, knit throughout the picture, and never miss a bit of the picture or drop a stitch. She not only reads while knitting, but this German-born woman is taking a public school course in English along with her student daughter and never misses a stitch while learning her tenses and parts of speech.

Even cactus plants are going "haywire" this spring, according to reports from the Plymouth end of the county, where Mrs. Harry Briggs owns a Christmas cactus that has been acting up lately. It is supposed to bloom only once a year, then at Christmas time, but in the last few days it threatened to blossom out for Easter.

When Lester D. Perry, North Walnut street, goes hunting, either for mushrooms or rabbits, he has his troubles. Yesterday he thought the time was ripe for mushrooms, so he visited the spots where you would expect mushrooms. But what did he find instead — rabbits, and it isn't rabbit season. And when hunting season comes along, he's certain he'll only see mushrooms.

TWO SERVICES

Jews Mark Passover With Rites At Temple.

The two remaining services in the observance of the Passover or the Feast of Emancipation by Mansfield Jews, will be held today and Easter Sunday at Temple Emmanuel, 132 West Second street.

The service today will be held at 7 p. m., and the service Sunday is scheduled for 8 a. m. Both services will be in charge of Rabbi David Rub.

Observance of the Passover began with two services Friday evening. In observing the Passover, the Jewish people reaffirm the ideal of religious freedom, by retelling the story of the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian oppression.

The Passover is observed for one week by Reform Jews and for eight days by those of the Orthodox belief.

CIRCUS OWNER DIES

CHALFONT, St. Giles, England —(U.P.)—Bertram Mills, 64, Great Britain's most famous circus owner, died today of bronchial pneumonia after a week's illness.

'GETS SET' FOR JAP OUTBREAK CAPITAL HEARS

Washington Believes Closing Of Siberian Borders Move To Hide Military Operations.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Soviet Russia has suddenly closed its Siberian borders to cloak large scale reinforcement of its eastern armies and air force against a possible outbreak of war with Japan, it was reported in informed diplomatic quarters here today.

The Siberian borders were closed April 13, with an announcement they might open April 29, but that the closing order "might be extended indefinitely." Travel on the trans-Siberian railroad has been suspended, and cable lines from China to western Russia have been shut down.

Through private diplomatic channels, despite a rigid censorship clamped down by the Soviets, word reached Washington that Russia is "getting set" to take advantage of recent disastrous defeats suffered by the Japanese in China.

Remembers Defeat.

Russia, though now under different rule, is still nursing a wounded pride from the defeat administered by Japan in 1904. On top of this the greatest threat presented the Soviet Union since the post-World war period has been the double pressure exerted by the Berlin-Tokyo anti-Comintern alliance. The Soviet, said diplomatic and military authorities feels it may be safer to strike now at Japan than to wait for an almost certain combination of strength by Japan with Germany.

Germany, occupied for the time with completing absorption of Austria, is not expected to make any immediate thrust to the eastward, these sources stated.

Together with reports of vast military preparations in Siberia came others that the Soviet is supplying huge quantities of war supplies to China. This is said to have been a major factor in the major defeat administered the Japanese in Shantung province. Still other reports, less credited however, said the Soviet sealed its Siberian borders to conceal a widespread revolt in the army.

Japan has had a quarter million men in Manchukuo, backed against the Soviet border, since outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war.

Thief Dines and Drinks Leisurely At Dairy Plant

Hunger and thirst undoubtedly prompted Mansfield's milk-drinking burglar to enter the Isaly Dairy company plant, at 17 North Franklin avenue last night.

Police reported that the thief had drunk several bottles of milk and had eaten part of a cheese, but had been unsuccessful in an attempt to gain entrance to the stock room. They said he had apparently entered the plant through a window that had been left open.

At the Hart Oil company on Park avenue east road, police said a thief left two cases of motor oil besides a window, he had broken open, when frightened away from the warehouse by a passerby.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Business Lily-White In Comparison to Poor-Box Robbing of New Dealers

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—We would come to a better understanding of things in Washington if Mr. Roosevelt had for apologists and coat holders some calm and reasonable men instead of those hysterical beshrews who squawk like neurotic women every time their man drops a duke on some issue. It is conceded that the reorganization bill in its final stage was only a hollow shell of the bill which originally it had been planned to bull through congress and that even if it had passed in this gaunt and feeble version it would have made little difference. If that is the case, then why all the screaming?

More hopeful would be an honest discussion of the known perfidy of the unspeakable bums who have made a flea bag of the sacred edifice of the New Deal and have exploited the tragedy of the ill-kept third and the paralysis of business to grab billions of dollars for their own rotten political purposes.

It would be helpful, too, to place a little more emphasis on the fact that business, which often is mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt's bleeders as though it were akin to brothel keeping, is a respectable and necessary institution and that even at its worst it was altruistic by comparison with the remorseless poor box robbing by which the New Deal keeps its gandies bought.

For those who do not know what a bleeder is I will explain that when Gene Tunney was prominent in the ring his best friend was a little society boxer from Greenwich, Conn., named Sam Pryor, now treasurer of the Republican party, who used to hurt worse than Mr. Tunney himself whenever anyone said anything that was less than idolatrous about his hero. Mr. Pryor came to be known to the cauliflower profession as Tunney's bleeder, and, judging by the volume and stridency of the shrieks from the president's corner, it is apparent that he has his bleeders, too.

The president himself took it and grinned with blood on his gums, offering no claim of foul when reorganization failed, but from behind his stool the air is filled with yelps of "dirty work!" and "they hit him with an ax!"

Well now the infighting was pretty fast and rugged for a few minutes there, and if I saw any ax used at all it was at the same time when those White House emissaries, as they were called in the Washington copy, were going around buzzing senators with threats of revenge if they should vote against the bill and promises of bribes if they should vote for it.

All right, "bribe" is a nasty word, but you tell me a better word to use for promises of money to buy votes for senators in return for voting a certain way. Whose money is that, anyway? Is it the Democratic party's money or the community's money? But I heard no bleeders squawk about that!

Joy of Resurrection Fills Churches for Easter Observance

Symbol to Christians of Life Everlasting, Day Will Be Commemorated Here With Sunrise Rites, Communion Services, Cantatas and Musical Programs.

Mansfielders tomorrow will join their hosannas with those that ring out over the world in joyous recognition of the Christian fact that Christ is risen from the dead; that 19 centuries ago a sepulcher in the garden of a rich man was empty when mourners came to the tomb of He who had been crucified, because His promise had been fulfilled that He would live again after death.

Easter, the symbol of eternal life to millions of Christians over the world, will be observed by thousands in Mansfield, starting with sunrise services and continuing throughout the day with the baptism of children, Holy Communion and cantatas that ring with the day's joyful message. The dark import of Holy Week and Good Friday will pass in the joy of the resurrection.

Early Morning Services.

At least seven churches will celebrate the day with worship services in the early morning, among them First Lutheran, First Christian, Grace Episcopal, South Main Street Evangelical and Church of the Brethren at 6:30 a. m., while congregations of First Methodist Episcopal and St John's Evangelical and Reformed churches will gather a half hour earlier, at 6 a. m.

Baptismals will be held at First Lutheran and at St. Luke's Lutheran and Holy Communion will be administered to worshipers in churches throughout the city.

Easter cantatas or special musical programs will be given at First Christian, First Presbyterian, South Main, St. Luke's, St. Paul, Central Methodist Episcopal and Church of the Brethren.

At St. Peter's Catholic church, low masses will be read at 5, 6:30, 8 and 9:30 a m. with a solemn high mass at 11 a. m. with the Very Rev. R. C. Goebel, pastor, as the celebrant.

'Christ Is Risen' Theme Of St. Paul Program.

"Christ Is Risen" will be the theme of the Easter program of St. Paul Lutheran Sunday school at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Special numbers will include a piano solo by Betty Hahn; a vocal solo by Miss Jane Weuthrick, and a violin solo by Ralph Beilstein. A number of recitations, exercises and songs will augment the program. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, will speak on the subject, "The Lord Is My Light and Salvation." The committee in charge of the program includes Mrs. William Bolley, chairman, Mrs. Lilian Damlos, Miss Katherine Miller, Mrs. Floyd O'Brien and Mrs. A. B. Snider.

At the morning worship at 10:30 a. m., Holy Communion will be administered. Rev. Gilbert will have as his sermon subject, "The Heart of Our Christian Faith." Musical numbers during the service will include the anthem "This Is the Day" by the choir and several selections by an instrumental trio made up of Ralph Beilstein, violin, Ernest Schafer, cello and O. L. Seybold, organ. A special service will be held by the Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Metings of two organizations of the church are scheduled for next week. The Thursday Nighters hold a covered dish supper at 6:30 p. m Thursday in the church parlors, and the Ever Faithful class meets at the home of Gretchen Edwards, rear 110 West First street, Thursday evening. Martha Wappner will conduct a devotional period.

Sunday morning the pastor will be guest speaker at an Easter sunrise service at St. Paul's Lutheran church at Lucas.

Sunrise Worship Opens Lutheran Observance.

Easter at the First Lutheran church will be observed at special services throughout the day, beginning with a sunrise service and concluding with a catechetical class reunion in the evening.

The sunrise worship begins at 6:30 a. m. Holy communion will be administered during the service, and Rev. J. David Mumford, assistant pastor, will give the meditation.

At the regular morning service at 9:45, the new confirmation class of 41 young people, will receive Holy communion. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor, will deliver the sermon on "Resurrection and Immortality."

The Easter program during the Sunday school hour at 10:45 a. m., will be in charge of L. J. Cashell, superintendent. A special service for the baptism of children is set for 3 p. m.

The annual reunion of all former catechetical classes will be held at 7:30 p. m, with Richard Smith, a student at Hamma Divinity school at Wittenberg college, and a member of the church, as guest speaker. Members of all confirmation classes will attend the church in a body, and a roll call of classes will be made.

Sunday also will bring to a close the attendance contest being held between First church and the Emmanual Lutheran church of Pottstown, Pa. First Lutheran won the contest last Sunday with an attendance of 1,458 while the Pottstown church had an attendance of 1,341. The Mansfield congregation enters the final day trailing the Pennsylvania church by 25.

A reception for new members received into the church since last Easter including the 1938 confirmation class will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, April 21.

Religious Drama Ends St. Luke's Observance.

"The Boy Who Discovered Easter," a religious drama in three scenes, will be presented by eight members of St. Luke's Lutheran church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, as the last of three Easter services at the church.

Cast in the play are Carl A. Graham, Vernon Horst, Miss Betty Reese, William C. Graham, Ernest Schafer, C. S. Izenour and Earl R. Garnes. Two songs will be given by the primary department, "Easter Song" and "The Blue Bird," and Mary Eileen Schuler will play "Whispering Hope" as an accordion solo. The entire program will be directed by Helen Loomis Linham, superintendent of the beginners and primary department of the Sunday school.

The church choir under the direction of Miss Florence MacDonald will sing two numbers during the morning worship at 10:45, "They Have Taken Away My Lord," by Stainer, and "Sun Shine Forth," by Gaines, with a violin obbligato by S. K. Jorgenson.

At this service the Holy Communion will be administered and members of the confirmation class will receive their first communion. Parents and immediate friends will commune with the confirmands. Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor, will have as his sermon subject, "Our Joyous Easter Festival."

Sunday at 3 p. m. a service of baptism of infants will be conducted at the church

Young People Conduct Salvation Army Rites.

Easter services at the Salvation Army will open at a sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. conducted by the Torchbearers unit of the Young People's club of the Mansfield corps. This will be followed by a worship service at county jail for the prisoners at 9:30 a. m. and a holiness meeting at 11 a. m. led by Adjutant D. R. Brown.

Services for the remainder of the day include Sunday school at 2 p. m. led by Mrs. A. L. Bryant; Young People's Legion with Mrs. C. Adams in charge at 3 p. m.; street meeting with Mrs. William A. Ayers in charge at 7 p. m., followed by the Easter pageant, "He Lives," given by the young peoples groups and directed by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Jarry Shortess.

Boys' Choir Sings At Grace Episcopal.

Easter music Sunday at the Grace Episcopal church will be presented by the church's boys' choir of 28 voices under the direction of Mrs. Dean Eckert.

The choir will sing during the sunrise service at 6:30 a. m., at the regular service at 11 a. m., and at an Easter service at 9 a. m. at St. Mark's church in Shelby.

Music by the choir will include, the processional hymn, "Welcome Happy Morning," "Easter Intrait" by MacFarren, "Kyrie" by Nicolson, "Gloria Tihi" by Tallis, the anthem "They Have Taken Away My Lord" by J. Stainer, "Sursam Corda" and "Sanctus" by Nicolson, "Gloria in Excelsis" by Merbecke, "Minc Dimitis" by Arkhangelsky, and the hymn "Draw Nigh" to be sung by William Warden, Richard Talbot, George Porterfield, Paul Pfahler and David Weimer.

Choir Brings Easter Message In Song.

"The Paschal Victor," by Matthews, sung by members of First Presbyterian choir, will carry in song the message of Easter, at that church Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

The Easter observance at First Presbyterian church will start with the morning services, when Rev. David N. Roller will have as his subject, "The Garden at the Foot of the Cross." One of the impressive features of the service will be a large cross made of living flowers in individual corsages which will be dismantled after the services and distributed among the sick. The junior and senior choirs will sing several selections. Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, organist, will play "Easter Morning on Mt. Rubidoux" by Gaul for a prelude, and "Toccata in G Minor," Dubois, for a postlude.

The cantata, directed by Mary Troll Anglin, will be presented at the vesper services in the afternoon. It is in three parts: First, "The Hour of Darkness," in which Christ is delivered to the mob and crucified; second, "The Rising Dawn," in which solos and chorus tell of the "Everlasting Hope," the broken seal on the tomb and the anthem "Behold Your Lord Is Risen"; and third, "The Perfect Day," the theme of which is that through the Lord's supper, one discovers the Lord.

Rev. Roller will read the continuity, giving the story from Bible passages as the choir sings.

Singers who will carry the solo work are Mrs. Anglin, Miss Jane Weuthrich, Leo Hans and Paul Watts. Mrs. Twitchell, at the organ, will provide the instrumental obbligato and accompaniment. One of the outstanding numbers in the cantata is "The Saving Victim," in which Mr. Hans sings a tenor obbligato to the anthem by the choir.

3 Easter Services at St. John's Church.

Easter will be observed at St. John's Evangelical church Sunday with three services, in which all organizations of the church will participate.

The main service of the day will be the annual Easterdawn candlelight service at 6 a. m., which will begin with a candlelight processional by the church choir of 30 voices under the direction of John C. Klinger.

Two Easter anthems will be sung by the choir, "Christ Is Risen," by Oetting and "Hosanna," by Granier-Adams. Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor, will have as his Easter sermon, "An Easter Visit to the Tomb of Jesus." Following the sermon, an open Easter communion will be celebrated with the 1938 confirmation class receiving its first communion in a body.

At a combined church and Sunday school service at 9 a. m., vocal selections, a tableaux and several numbers by the Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Frank Vild, will be presented. The program will be in charge of the Senior Married Peoples Sunday school class, of which Miss Bertha Reuss is teacher. A service of baptism for infants and children will be a part of this hour.

Concluding the day's services will be a German Easter service at 10:30 a. m. The pastor will preach on the subject, "My Easter Faith." Holy Communion also will be celebrated during this service.

Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the church parlors, the annual confirmation banquet, in honor of the 1938 confirmation class, will be held. Members of the 1938 class will attend in a body The banquet will be sponsored by the Junior and Senior Young People societies with arrangements in charge of William Heichel and Miriam Gross, presidents of the two groups.

Nazarene Observance To Open at 6 A. M.

Easter will be commemorated at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday with a sunrise service at 6 a. m. Mrs. E. H. Mattox will be soloist and communion service will follow.

At a Sunday school rally at 9:30 a. m., Mrs. Helen Walters and daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. Helen Wallace and Mrs. Lester Fair will present musical numbers and a reading. At the morning worship at 10:45 a. m., new members will be accepted and communion will be administered. Rev. Mrs. D. L. Brandenburg will give the sermon and Mrs. Pearl Bryan and the Misses Catherine and Mary Heldenbrand will be the vocalists.

An evening young people's service at 6:30 p. m. will be followed by the evening service at 7:30.

Easter Vespers at Congregational Church.

The familiar Easter story of Christ's resurrection from the tomb will be told in carols, anthems and solos during an Easter vesper service at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at the First Congregational church by the church choir under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr.

Guest soloists to be heard during the afternoon will be Edmund Fulton, baritone of Ashland, and Siguard Jorgens on, violinist, instructor of instrumental music in the public schools.

The choir will be heard in the "Christ the Lord Is Risen Again," by Blair, "As It Began To Dawn," by Harker, "Sanctus," by Gounod, and the carol "The Bells Are Gaily Ringing," by Lucas.

A quartet comprised of Kathleen MacIntosh, Gladys Kerr, Katherine Huber and Wanda Hess will sing "Supplication," by Gilhgham, Mrs. W J. Hazeltine and Mrs. John C. Klinger will present the duet, "Hosanna," by Grenier. Miss Louise Krause, church organist, will play "Easter Morning on Mt. Rubidoux," by Gaul, as a prelude, and "Hosanna," by Wachs as a postlude.

Choir soloists will be Mrs. Hazeltine, Miss MacIntosh, Mrs Klinger, Miss Hess and John Grabler.

Easter Observance Opens at Sunrise.

A sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. Sunday will open the observance of Easter at South Main Street Evangelical church.

During the morning worship at 10:30 a. m., a baptismal service and reception for new members will be held. Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Burning Message For The Burdened Heart."

The choir will give an Easter cantata at 7:30 p. m. Meetings scheduled for next week at the church are an orchestra rehearsal at 7 p. m. Monday, choir rehearsal Wednesday evening, the junior choir at 6:15 and the adult group at 7:15. A prayer meeting and Bible study will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, followed at 8.30 by a meeting of Sunday school workers.

Holds Reception For New Members.

Easter will be observed at St. Matthew's Lutheran with the celebration of the Lord's supper and the reception of new members, during the 10.30 a. m. service.

Music will include the singing of "Hosanna," by Jules Franier, by the choir, and the singing of "The Resurrection" by Shelley, as an offertory solo by Harry Meier. Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor, will preach on the subject, "Reflecting Easter."

At the evening service at 7:30, Rev. Sheriff will have as his subject, "He lives."

Christian Choirs Join for Easter.

A musical program by the senior and junior choirs of First Christian church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday wil feature the church's Easter program.

In addition to presenting the evening program, the two choirs will offer several numbers during the worship service at 10:30 a. m. The evening program will include, organ prelude, "The Resurrection Morn" by Johnson; "Sweet and Clear the Birds Are Singing," the junior choir; anthem "All Hail" by Wilson, senior choir; solo, "Jesus Lives" sung by Mrs. O. F. Shivley.

"Easter Flowers Are Blooming Bright," junior choir; solo, "The Resurrection" sung by Mrs. Bruce Rogers; "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," by Wilson, the senior choir; offertory, violin solo, "Angels Serenade" by Miss Marjorie Ader; "With Harp and With Trumpet," by Miller, the junior choir; solo, "Alleluia," sung by Mrs. Frank Brannon, and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" by the senior choir.

Music for the morning service will include, organ prelude, "Easter Morning," by Malling; processional, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today" by junior and senior choirs; "Again the Morn of Gladness," junior choir; offertory, "The Risen Lord" by Sheppard; anthem, "Christ Being Raised From the Dead," senior choir, and the postlude, "Alleluia" by Harrison.

Soloists during both services will be Norman Selby, Maxine Zimmerman, Helen Hagelbarger, Robert Bechtel, Paul Zimmerman, Raymond Holmes, Helen Dickson, Mrs. Shivley, Mrs. Bruce Rogers, and Mrs. Frank Brannon.

Services at the church Sunday will begin with a sunrise prayer service at 6:30 a. m., followed by a special program by the Bible school at 9:30. During the worship hour there will be a reception of new members into the church. Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Glory of Easter."

Two Easter Services At Baptist Church.

Two services will be held Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church in commemoration of Easter.

Choral music will be presented during worship period at 10.30 a m. under the direction of Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music. The choir will sing "Unfold Ye Portals" from "The Redemption," by Gounod, and Mr. Frank will play three organ numbers, "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," by Handel, "Easter Hymn," and "Resurrexit," by Lacey.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will speak on the subject, "Life in the Light of Death." Baptism of children will be held during the service. An Easter service by the Sunday school will be held at the regular hour of 9:15 a. m.

The spring meeting of the Women's Society of the Mansfield Baptist association will be held Wednesday at the First Baptist church of Bucyrus. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held with a covered-dish dinner at noon.

M. E. Sunday School Re-enacts Bible Drama.

The story of Mary after she was touched by the palm of Jesus will be told in a Biblical drama, "It Is I," by Ethel Gesner Rockwell, to be given by 13 members of the Sunday school of the Central Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday as the Sunday school's contribution to the church's Easter program.

The play will be presented in seven scenes, and the action of the story carries through the crucifixion to the time when Mary becomes aware of the resurrection of Christ.

Those who will take part in the play are Virginia Jenkins, Geraldine Hostetler, Katherine Slusser, Willa Hollingshead, Vivian Smeltzer, Vivian Miller, William Long, Warren Peterson, LeMoine Derr, Claude Ewing, William Hollingshead, John Irvine and William Skelly.

The Easter morning worship will be held at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Paul Hollingshead, pastor, will preach on the subject, "Now We Know In Part." The Sunday school hour will be held at 9:15 a. m.

THE RESURRECTION

From the painting by Sodoma in Palazzo Publico at Sienna, Italy.

IN THE end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seeks Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.—St. Matthew, 28:1-6.

The Northwest Ordinance

Declaration of Religious Freedom Outstanding Clause of 87's Ordinance

"Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to the good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

EDITOR'S NOTE—It seems peculiarly fitting that today's article on the Northwest Ordinance, one of a series, should appear on the day before Easter, a joyous Christian holiday, since the article concerns the Ordinance's guarantee of religious freedom. That guarantee is recognized as the most important clause in the Ordinance. The story is told by two writers today—the Very Rev. R. C. Goebel of St. Peter's Catholic church, and by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, of the First Lutheran church.

By Rev. G. E. SWOYER, D. D.
Pastor First Lutheran Church.

Human beings are made to be free.

The gentle Galilean, centuries ago, said these undying words, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Those words are eternally true for Jew or Gentile, Pagan or Prophet. Jesus recognized that freedom was the natural and best condition of men, and He came to give us that freedom. Yet, the history of the world proves that liberty is a very precious, elusive possession. When men become careless, it slips away and in comes the dictator. But when liberty goes, what else is of real value?

"For what avails the plough or sail,
Or land or life if freedom fail?"

The price of liberty is eternal vigilance.

Around the year 1775, liberty was in the air. It glowed in hidden literature, it warmed true hearts, it resided in unexpected places. The Declaration of Independence was an outburst of this passion for freedom, and soon the Constitution of the United States was forever to make the liberty of men more certain. In between these two precious documents came the Ordinance of 1787. It, too, made a tremendous contribution unto the preservation of freedom for generations yet unborn. Its words are a high water mark in the progressive affairs of men toward freedom and against "brutalitarian" forces.

Think of this vast contribution toward the religious liberty of the sons of men. Article 1 of the Ordinance says, "No person demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or religious sentiments."

What a bulwark against tyranny that sentence is! It smacks the dictator of today right between the eyes!

In lands where the mailed fist rules, liberty of religion is gone. Children under 18 years of age cannot be taught God in some places. Nuns, preachers, priests, rabbis and followers of the Christ have been put to death because they refused to give up their God. Against all such injustice, and even against "cruel or unusual punishments," stands this document forever.

Article III has some words which should be shot into the muddled brains of every dictator around the world. These words should be a motto for every nation. Where tyranny woud cast out God as unnecessary, where a blatant atheism would supplant the Christ, where churches are turned into museums under the crack-brained schemes of betrayers of the Almighty, these words from the third Article should be sung as a national anthem and be a challenge for all to put God first.

These are the words. "Religion, morality and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

The order of those first words is important. Religion leads them, and religion is our relationship to God. Have true religion and morality is certain to follow in its wake. But religion and morality are not gifts snatched from the elusive blue of the sky. They come through knowledge, information, education. Therefore, for the purposes of "good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

Those noble words are a high mark along the progress of mankind. The Articles of Confederation resulted in a weak government and a flabby control, yet from it came forth this noble document for God, personal and religious freedom. It was no whimsical ordinance, without teeth or losing itself in the vacuities of thin political air. Those men were practical. They carried their doctrine down into life. Although they were surrounded by slavery, yet they dared write for Ohio and the other states to be formed from this great Northwest Territory, "There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted."

So that document stands before America. Fortunate is it that the people of our sweet land of liberty are making much of it this year. "More power to Thee, O Immortal Document," is our prayer. For that document, if believed in and followed, would stop the dictators at our very doors, would end all Jew-baiting and Jew hating, would protect church and snyagogue and cathedral, and would so far advance mankind that the liberty Christ came to give would be mankind's most precious heritage, now and forever.

BRANDY FOR 'LAST MAN'

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Former Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis has donated a bottle of 120-year-old brandy to the Last Man's Club organized by the St. Louis post of the American Legion.

By THE VERY REV. R. C. GOEBEL
Pastor, St. Peter's Catholic Church.

THERE is an American way. Our history proves it.

Jan. 2, 1778 Patrick Henry, governor of Virginia, commissioned George Rogers Clark to lead an expedition into the Illinois country. Its purpose was to check the savage attacks of the Indians, incited by the English, on American traders and settlers and to subject the territory lying north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi to the United States. It was then in the possession of England.

Clark surprised Kaskaskia, on the east bank of the Mississippi, on the night of July 4, 1778. The few inhabitants were French Catholics. They knew the sad story of the deportation of the Catholic Acadians and feared the same cruel treatment. But that was not the American way. Father Gibault, called the patriot priest of the West, favored the Colonies, who were fighting for independence from England. The priest timidly approached Clark to plead for his people. "I told him," wrote Clark in his report, "that I had nothing to do with churches more than to defend them from insult. That, by the laws of the state, his religion had as great privileges as any other." Or to quote from his memoirs, "As for their church, all religions would be tolerated in America, and that, so far from intermeddling with it, that any insult offered to it, should be punished, and to convince them that we were not savages and plunderers as they had conceived, that they might return to their families and inform them that they might conduct themselves as usual, and without apprehension of any danger."

Here we have the American way.

Without detracting from his ability in the least, Clark was not a student of history, nor had he had experience in government. But he embodied that American way of liberty and tolerance in theory and practice, which has always characterized the American nation. By a mysterious guidance of Providence and a signal use of common sense, the important men in the formative period of America determined that religion shall never be persecuted here.

Clark's way was not a mere personal or temporary way. It was national. It was America.

When congress passed the Ordinance of 1787 it further developed and emphasized Clark's principle of religious freedom. I quote from the Ordinance: "For extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, which form the basis whereon these republics, their laws and constitution are erected; to fix and establish those principles as the basis of all laws, constitutions, and governments, which forever hereafter shall be formed in the said territory. . . . No person, demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner, shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or religious sentiments. . . . Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

That is the American way.

The men who wrote the Ordinance of 1787 were not Catholics. Catholics were few in the Original States. Most of the settlers and traders in the Northwest Territory, however, were French Catholics. The covered wagons had not begun to come over the mountains from the east and southeast. The farmers of the Ordinance could have harassed the Catholics of this sparsely settled region, but they did not. They voiced firmly the American way of religious and educational liberty. They wrote it forever into law.

After he had assured the Catholics of Kaskaskia that America meant liberty to them, Clark says they went to their church and for joy rang the bell. That bell is today preserved as a precious relic on Kaskaskia island. They call it the "Liberty Bell of the West." It is cracked like the other "Liberty Bell' in Philadelphia. But Americans today thrill to its echoing peel over the broad Mississippi and the hills and vales of the Northwest Territory, proclaiming freedom to all men of the land.

The "Liberty Bells' of the East and the West ring out the American way. Listen.

STAY IN SCHOOL

CENTER POINT, Ia.—(AP)—Twenty-five boy sit-down strikers in the village high school rejected an offer of the school board for settlement of differences today and said they preferred to "carry on."

"The townspeople are co-operating," a spokesman said. "We're well supplied with blankets and pillows and the domestic science students are supplying us with good meals."

CHAPTER XIV.

"Having his bath. He always gets up most frightfully early, and I thought I was going to get a little sleep."

Gay was definitely unsympathetic.

"That doesn't matter. What did the creature want?"

"Those papers," said Sylvia in a frightened whisper—"a packet of letters tied up with a rubber band. He says they're in Francis safe and he's simply got to have them. He says they belong to him. He says I'll know which they are because they've got Zero on them. He says it's too late to get the keys now—he says I must get the papers myself."

"Sylly, you can't!" Gay said.

"I must—he says so. If I don't, he'll tell Francis, and I'd rather be dead. And we're going down to Cole Lester tomorrow—because of the window being opened, you know. And I'm to take the letters down and give them to him—in the yew walk."

"What time?" said Gay.

Sylvia caught her breath. "He's very frightening," she said. "He knows everything. He knows when I go to bed, and he knows Francis sits up writing in his study till half past one. So that's when I'm to take the papers. The servants will be in bed, and Francis will be in his study, and everyone will think I'm asleep. And I'm to go into the alley, and he'll be outside to take them through the window in the hedge. And if Francis finds out, I think he'll kill me."

Gay caught her breath and said quickly, "Don't talk nonsense, Sylly!"

"It isn't nonsense," said Sylvia Colesborough. Her eyes widened. A shiver went over her and she said in a half whisper, "I'm frightened—I am frightened, Gay."

Gay said, "Tell Francis. You mustn't do what this man wants you to do. If you tell Francis you'll be safe, because he won't have a hold over you any more."

Sylvia choked down a sob.

"I can't—I can't—you don't understand—and you don't know Francis—I can't tell him."

Gay said, "Let me," and she saw Sylvia's face go grey.

She caught at Gay and stood there trying to speak. The words wouldn't come, not till Gay got her into a chair and knelt beside her saying every soothing thing that she could think of. Then the words came with a flood of tears.

"You mustn't—you won't—you can't! Oh, Gay!"

Gay was ready to promise her the moon. What could she do except say, and swear, and mean it, that of course she wouldn't dream of telling Francis what Sylvia had told her in confidence?

This had the desired effect, and with no more than a tear or two entangled in those long lashes, Sylvia gazed at her reproachfully.

"Darling, you did upset me. I've always told you things, and I never dreamed you would think of telling anyone, especially Francis."

Gay was relieved but provoked.

"Well, I never meant to," she said.

Sylvia turned to the mirror.

"You've made me look too frightful. You know, Gay, you really ought to be careful not to upset people. I might have fainted, and then what would you have done?"

Gay couldn't help laughing.

"Rubbish, Sylly—you've never fainted in your life!"

Sylvia looked back over her shoulder quickly, as if there might be something behind her.

"I thought—I was going to—I felt—" She shivered again, then went back to powdering her face. "I don't generally put any color on, but I think I'd better have a little—don't you?"

Gay said, "Yes, I think so."

"But I'm sure it will be all right really. I mean, if I do what this Zero man wants me to this time, he won't ever ask me anything again—he absolutely promised that. You see, he says the letters are really his and Francis won't let him have them. And, of course, he says, he could go to law and get them that way, but it would cost such a lot that we might all be ruined, so it's much better for me to do what he wants, and I've told him it's no good his thinking I'll do anything more, because I won't. I really feel quite all right about it now."

She got up, smiled at her own reflection, slipped her arm into Gay's, and said, "I don't know what made me feel like that. It was horrid—just as if something dreadful was going to happen."

* * *

It was the next day that it began to dawn upon Algy that Brewster was sorry for him. The remoteness of Carstairs continued. The atmosphere of the office was glacial in the extreme. Brewster, in the capacity of intermediary, wore a worried and deprecating air. Impossible as the day wore on to escape the conviction that Brewster was being kind. In the role of Samaritan Algy found him frankly intolerable. He preferred him as the human encyclopedia, This being Saturday, there was, however, only half a day to be endured. There was hope that the kindness of Brewster might have expended itself before they met again on Monday morning. Possibly, though not probably, Carstairs might have thawed. Anyhow, whatever had happened or was going to happen, Algy intended to play golf. He had a conviction that fresh air and exercise were most urgently required.

The new Bentley had never run better. He returned to town a good deal soothed. He had played like an angel.

He came whistling up the stairs, and was arrested half way by Barker, who emerged soundlessly from the dining-room and informed him that a lady had been ringing him up—"No name, sir, and no message, except that she said she would be ringing again later."

Algy went to his room and proceeded to have a bath. When the telephone bell rang he cursed it bitterly. Never is a hot bath so agreeable as when you have to leave it. Algy dripped, Algy cursed, Algy contorted his agreeable features into a scowl. He said "Who is it?" in the voice that means "Why weren't you drowned at birth?" and heard Gay Hardwicke say rather breathlessly.

"Oh, Algy, is that you?"

"It's me," Algy replied, the scowl subsiding into a mere frown. "I'm dripping all over the Barker's new carpet."

"Why?" said Gay in an interested voice.

"Because I was in the middle of having a bath."

"Darling, how grim!" she said. "Go away and finish having your bath and then come back and ring me up."

"Can't you tell me what you want?"

"Not whilst you drip. I want you in your very best mood. You sounded perfectly ferocious when you asked who I was." She hung up, and Algy went back to his bath.

When he rang up ten mintues later she enquired anxiously after his temper.

"I thought it sounded quite feverish just now."

"It's in the pink," said Algy.

"Really? Because I want to ask you something, and I'd rather know forehand if you're likely to blow up."

"No explosives on the premises," Algy assured her. "You wrong me, my child. I am known as Algernon, the man who never lost his temper."

"How awful that sounds! Has anyone really ever called you Algernon?"

"My grandmother did. I can just remember her saying, 'Here are three pennies, Algernon. Do not spend them all at once.'"

"And did you?"

"Of course. And then she died and left me a tidy sum of money, bless her. Did I ring you up to talk about grandmothers? I mean, was that the original intention, or were you just asking after my temper?"

Gay's voice dropped.

She said, "Well, I want to ask you something."

"Last time you said that, I offered you half my kingdom, but you only wanted to talk about being blackmailed," Algy countered. "What is it this time?"

"Cars," said Gay in a burst of confidence. "I mean your car. I mean——"

"What do you mean? You're not getting anywhere, you know."

"Well, that's just what I want to do. I want to get somewhere, and—I don't see how I can without a car, and—I wondered—whether you'd lend me yours—"

Algy said quite slowly, "You want me to lend you my car. When?"

"Tonight," said Gay.

"Can you drive? Have you got a license?"

"I've got a license. I've had lessons."

Algy burst out laughing.

"My child, if bent on suicide, why involve my Bentley?"

A very small voice came back to him.

"I don't know. I thought perhaps—you would—"

Algy was smitten. She sounded like a forlorn child. He said, "My dear, don't be idiotic. If you want to go anywhere, I'll drive you—you know that."

He could feel her hesitation.

And then her vice: "I don't know, Algy, would you—would you really?"

"Of course I would. I will."

He heard her catch her breath.

"And not ask questions, or want to know where I'm going and what it's all about?"

"I'm afraid I'll have to know where you're going or I can't get you there. Gay, what's this all about? Can't you tell me?"

"No—no, I can't—I'll have to find some other way."

"What time do you want to start?"

"I think about 10. It'll take about two hours. I want to be there by 12."

An almost inaudible whistle escaped from Algy.

"Is this an all-night show?"

"Oh, I don't think so. I think we ought to be back by 3."

"Gay!"

She found words suddenly.

"Algy, I don't know why you should. There isn't any reason really. But I've got to, and it would make all the difference to know you were there—standing by. Only I can't tell you anything, and if you're going to ask questions—"

"I won't," said Algy.

"Because I could go alone."

"You're not going alone," said Algy, and hung up.

Promptly at 10 o'clock Algy picked up Gay.

The Bentley ran smoothly between dark hedgerows. London was a long way behind them.

When Algy asked, "Where do you want to go?" Gay had a map to show him, ready folded.

"The name of the place is Colebrook. It's about 35 miles."

"Then it won't take anything like two hours."

(To be continued.)

CLOSES MAY 1

Youth Forum Season To End With Territory Observance.

Closing their first season, members of the Community Christian Youth Forum will join in the observance of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest Territory on Sunday, May 1, at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. Robert Brown, professor of human relations at Oberlin college and the principal speaker at the territory celebration at Marietta last week, will deliver the address.

Assisting the forum with plans for the program is the Mansfield committee of which Miss Henrietta Frank is chairman. The regular meeting of the Youth Forum scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed until April 24 because of Easter. The meeting will be held at the Central Methodist church.

PASTOR CHOSEN AS INSTRUCTOR

Rev. Corwin Will Teach Bible At National Youth Conference.

Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, will go to Winona Lake, Ind. in June where he has been selected as an instructor at the National Youth conference to be held there.

The conference is interdenominational and will present a program of study, recreation and evangelism. Opening June 10, it continues through June 17.

Rev. Corwin will teach a course on the Bible. More than 1,000 young people from all sections of the country are expected to attend.

SCIENTIST TOPIC

'Doctrine of Atonement' Will Be Subject for Sunday.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "I and my Father are one" (John 10:30).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good . . . Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another" (Romans 12:9, 10).

HAS LUMBER SURPLUS

SYDNEY—(AP)—About 35,000,000 feet of surplus Oregon timber in huge logs are floating in Sydney harbor, causing concern to the Maritime Services Board. The war in China has contributed to the congestion of lumber.

BUCYRUS CASTS TO GIVE EASTER PLAYS, PAGEANT

'Dead And Risen' To Be Given At Lutheran Parish House On Three Nights.

BUCYRUS—Leading in the Easter programs to be presented in Bucyrus churches is the pageant to be given three nights beginning Tuesday, April 19 at Good Hope Lutheran parish house.

Directed by Mrs. William Unger, the pageant, "Dead and Risen," has been staged on previous occasions at the same church. A cast of 100 will take part in the production including children's, junior and senior choirs.

Other special programs to be presenetd in Bucyrus churches will include dawn and sunrise services, cantatas and confirmation services.

First Presbyterian church will open its Easter program with an Easter breakfast at 6:30. A cantata at 10:30 will be sung by the combined choirs of the church.

Sunrise Services.

Sunrise services will be held at St. John's Reformed church by the Christian Endeavor and Communion will follow during the morning worship hour. Good Hope Lutheran church will also offer a sunrise service at 7 o'clock.

A pageant will be presented at a dawn service at First Evangelical church at 6 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Beta Sigma class. Baptism of infants and adults and reception of members will be observed at 10:30.

Brokensword Methodist and First Baptist choirs will unite in a vesper service when a group of guest musicians will assist in presenting a varied program of Easter music. The service will be held at 4 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Gillespie.

Three services will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church culminating with a cantata at 3 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Tuller. Dr. B. H. Pershing, professor at Wittenberg college, will conduct Holy Communion and deliver the sermon at the morning service following dawn services at 6:30.

BIRTHS AHEAD

WILLARD — There were 12 births and 11 deaths recorded at City Clerk Clarence Hessler's office during March for Willard and surrounding townships, a territory comprising 100 square miles.

No births were reported from Richmond, Greenfield or New Haven townships and no deaths occurred in Greenfield township during this period.

IN NEW OFFICE

BUCYRUS — Members of the County soil conservation committee moved into their new headquarters in the First National bank building on South Sandusky avenue Friday, moving from the third floor of the courthouse.

The new quarters have been remodeled and redecorated. Members of the committee are A. D. Holt, E. C. Hartwel and Earl Eichhorn.

A Farmer's Diary

APRIL 15

MY BOYHOOD home was among the spring-filled hills of Pennsylvania, so whenever I can, I like to enjoy the flow and gurgle, the freshness and flavor of spring water. I stopped at such a spring today.

Its volume is almost constant and has been flowing long before the memory of man. As the poet said, "Men may come and men may go, But I go on forever." In its ceaseless movement it reminds me of time itself.

An old man came down the eastern hill to where I stood. He was shabby and unshaven and carried his earthly possessions in a battered muddy grip in his left hand. In the other he had a cane.

"Good day," I said. "This is a wonderful spring."

"Good afternoon," he returned, with a very pleasant smile from a broad mouth. "Yes, I've knowed this place since I wuz knee high to a frog. Them days 'twas all woods around, except a clearing for the house and garden and the orchard yonder. Our home was nor'east among the heavy hills and my father used to take his corn and wheat on horse back to the mill down there where this water turned the wheel. It took him nigh onto a day to go and come and grind his grist."

"Was the spring as large when you first saw it?" I asked.

"I don't know—sometimes I think there was a mite more water, but mebbe not. The race was built down against the bank yonder high enough to reach the top of the waterwheel. The wagon road went under it. My father said the water wheels soon rotted out. I caught trout in the pools below the mill. The road run different then."

My friend grew silent and when I turned about, his eyes were far away, his mind lost in memories. He was drinking from a cup I could never touch. He was really living—I was idly standing there.

ised WPA that we would get the Woodland project started."

He pointed out that the ordinance had been drafted to comply with the state code and to make the bonds more attractive to the bond buyers.

Councilman Miller objected to the terms on the grounds that it would allow the bondholders to dictate their own terms to the city on the matter of raising water rates in case the city defaults the bonds.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said that he "was ashamed to attach my name to the thing."

"The city of Mansfield doesn't have to be ashamed to offer anything to the public and there is no reason why we should obligate ourselves any further than necessary," Kelley said.

A suggestion that the city solicitor take the measure before the firm of Squires, Sanders and Dempsy, Cleveland bond counsel for approval, was made by Porch. Council agreed.

The measure calls for the issuance of $64,000 in "open end" mortgage revenue bonds to be issued against the municipal water plant and to be retired over a period of eight years.

Provisions also state that the bonds shall first be offered for sale to the sinking fund trustees and then if refused, shall be offered at public sale.

Trace Roosevelt Boy, Runaway Pal, To Hotel In East

GROTON, Mass. — (U.P.) — Dirk Roosevelt and Henry Wyse Distler, 13-year-old runaways from exclusive Groton school, spent last night at the Hotel Springfield in Springfield, Mass., and later were seen at that city's railroad station, state police said today.

Young Roosevelt, grandson of the Republican president and a distant relative of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his companion signed the hotel register as "Dick and Henry Godernich, Baltimore, M." They said they were brothers.

At 12:30 a. m. they left the hotel and soon after were seen near union station. Railroad agents said the boys did not buy tickets.

Nevertheless, police believed the boys boarded either the 5:04 a. m. or 6:30 a. m. train for New York via New Haven, Conn. Authorities of cities along the route were asked to search all trains.

'PEACE,' LAST WISH OF POPE

Expresses Desire In Easter Prayer As Vatican Prepares For Ceremonies.

fered from insomnia. This is due largely to pain and the suffocating attacks of asthma he suffers.

The physical preparation for tomorrow's ceremonies began more than two months ago and was interrupted only by the tense incident which occurred when Cardinal Innitzer, the archbishop of Vienna, gave his sanction to Germany's annexation of Austria without first consulting the Vatican.

This, it was said, caused the Pontiff "undue fatigue."

For a time, it was feared he might not be able to participate in the Easter services but his physician, Dr. Aminta Milani finally consented on condition the Pope's actual activities be curtailed.

Dr. Milani and the Pope's male nurses will remain on instant call throughout the ceremonies.

Because it will be accompanied by the canonization of three new saints by Pope Pius, tomorrow's Easter mass in St. Peter's will be the most sumptuous and elaborate in decades.

Seventy thousand persons will crowd Christendom's largest church for the second triple canonization in the Pope's 16-year reign, and St. Peter's has been especially decorated.

The three saints to be recognized as members of the Heavenly host are Andrea Bobola, a Polish jesuit martyr; Giovanni Leonardi, Italian founder of the "Mother of God" Priests' Order; and Salvatore Da Horta, a Spanish lay member of the Order of the Little Brothers.

Solemn high mass is scheduled to start at 11:30 a. m., (4:50 a. m., New York, Est.). Cardinal Granito will celebrate the mass. Insofar as possible, every permissable burden of the six-hour ceremony has been lifted from the shoulders of the weakened, 81-year-old Pontiff.

The entire ceremony, including hymns of the world-famous Pontifical and Sistine choirs, blasting of the Swiss Guard trumpets and the Papal band, will be broadcast from the Vatican radio station, starting around 2:30 a. m., Est.

Roosevelts to Have Quiet Easter Day.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President and Mrs. Roosevelt have arranged a quiet Easter Sunday as a prelude to the traditional egg rolling expected to attract 50,000 children and adults to the White House grounds on Easter Monday.

The chief executive and first lady will attend morning services at St. Thomas Episcopal church. Mrs. Roosevelt also will attend sunrise services in Arlington cemetery and place a lily cross on the unknown soldier's tomb.

Easter Monday—only day in the year when the White House private grounds are open to the public—will find the president and Mrs. Roosevelt hosts to a huge throng.

NOTARY SUIT HEADS WEEK'S COURT DOCKET

County Bar's Petition Seeking To Restrain Notaries To Be Heard Monday.

An injunction suit filed by three Mansfield attorneys representing the Richland County Bar association and seeking to restrain 40 notaries in the county from "practicing law," will come before Judge C. H. Huston Monday in common pleas court as the court opens a heavy schedule of equity cases.

The suit, which would halt the alleged practice of law and the performance of duties usually considered the work of an attorney by persons holding notary public commissions, was filed by Attys. W. H. Gifford, George W. Biddle and John C. O'Donnell. They will be represented at the hearing by Attys. Van C. Cook, A. S. Beach and Marshall C. Moore.

C. L. Beal, I. K. Umbarger and 38 others are named defendants in the case. Their attorneys are Weldon and Huston and Henkel and Gongwer.

Ten other cases, including five divorce suits, are scheduled to come before Judge Huston Monday and Tuesday, according to the court calendar set up by C. A. McKinley, assignment clerk.

The cases and the attorneys for the plaintiffs and defendants are:

Monday—Attys. W. H. Gifford, George W. Biddle, John C. O'Donnell and others vs. C. L. Beal, I. K. Umbarger and 38 other defendants, for injunction to restrain defendants from practicing law, Attys. Biddle for plaintiff and Weldon and Huston for defndant; Kathryn Smith vs. George W. Smith, for divorce, Atty. J. V. Will for plaintiff; Kathryn Young vs. Glenn W. Young, for divorce, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Joseph Schivinski vs. Pearl Steve and others, to quiet title to lot 1,953, Mansfield, Atty. Joseph A. Bayer for plaintiff and W. F. Voegele for defendants.

SPEED TRIAL IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Los Angeles Phychiatrists Hold 'Sex Maniac' Sane.

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Two phychiatrists who examined Charles McLachlan, confessed slayer of seven-year-old Jenny Moreno, announced today that he was a "sex maniac with a preverted mind."

Dr. J. Paul Rivers and Dr. Benjamin Blank said, however, that the 55-year-old house painter was sane.

McLachlan confessed that he bashed the girl's head with a hammer because he "got excited" when she screamed in protest against his advances. A murder charge was filed against him and the sheriff announced that the case would go before the county grand jury Tuesday so that he could go to trial without delay.

RAIL UNIONS IN STRIKE THREAT

Protest Proposed Pay Cuts for 1,000,000 Workers.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—Railway labor leaders threatened today to call a nationwide railroad strike if executives force a wage cut upon 1,000,000 workers.

They challenged the directors of the Association of American Railroads to set in motion the machinery of the railway labor act, which might force a reduction, and warned them that labor "would stop at nothing short of a nation wide strike" to maintain its present wage rate.

Heads of the railway brotherhoods took this position after rejecting proposals for a voluntary wage "deduction."

Canada also seems to be having a recession—with the annual output of Dionnes far below the 1934 level.

With billions of dollars wasted and more people out of employment now than ever before, this might be regarded as a good time to "try something else."

All That Is Really Needed.

RECOGNITION of difficulties that will be encountered in pursuit of an ideal does not justify abandoning effort to go forward.

When President Roosevelt said, in his message to congress this week: "We need more than the materials of recovery. We need a united national will," he did no more than restate what is known by every thoughtful person.

He then continued: "We need to recognize nationally that the demands of no group, however just, can be satisfied unless that group is prepared to share in finding a way to produce the income from which they and all other groups can be paid . . .

"Use of power by any group, however situated, to force its interest or to use its strategic position in order to receive more from the common fund than its contribution to the common fund justifies, is an attack against and not an aid to our national life . . .

"Amid the voices which now seek to divide group from group, occupation from occupation, section from section, thinking Americans must insist on common effort in a common endeavor and a common faith in each other.

"Let every business man set out to use his strength of mind and heart and his confidence in his fellow man and his country. Let every labor leader find not how work can be stopped but how it can be made to proceed smoothly, continuously and fairly. Let every public official consider that his task is to use his authority so that the service he renders is adapted to curbing abuses and helping honest effort. Let every one of us work together to move the life of the nation forward."

There you have a complete formula for universal happiness and unexampled prosperity. No clearer statement of ideals could be desired. When future generations elevate the human family to the higher levels required for such an accomplishment the millenium will have arrived.

Meanwhile, the urgent need is for a practicable program adaptable to people as they are, so that the present generation may share in the constructive work of advancing gradually toward an ultimate ideal state.

Approaching Electric Era.

LITTLE wonder that this country has not been able to readjust itself fast enough to keep pace with its material progress!

Luxuries have changed into necessities so rapidly in the past couple of decades that it is hard to distinguish between them.

It is estimated, for instance, that 70 per cent of all the homes in America are equipped for use of electricity—at least to the extent of lighting.

Records show use of 99 billion kilowatt hours of electric current in the United States in 1937—a gain of nine billion kilowatt hours over the preceding year. Prediction is made that this will reach annual consumption of 200 billion kilowatt hours within the next ten years.

According to a survey, there are still 10,000,000 American homes without electric irons; 20,000,000 without electric washing machines and vacuum cleaners; 24,000,000 without electric refrigerators and 28,000,000 without electric ranges.

Obviously America is rushing toward its Electric Era. Besides the vast demand for domestic use and farm power, there is a steadily increasing market for industrial power.

With restoration of normal business conditions industries associated with the electrical field may be expected to enjoy a period of unexampled prosperity.

From 'Who's Who' To Sing Sing.

WHEN Richard Whitney, listed in "Who's Who" as former president of the New York stock exchange, entered Sing Sing prison this week to serve sentence of at least three years and four months for grand larceny, he provided another example that should not be lost sight of by others, especially by young people who aspire to positions of large responsibility.

While wrong-doing may be condoned as an attribute of ignorance or mediocrity it cannot be so lightly excused in those who have reached high places and who have won the confidence of associates and patrons.

As leader in a business in which ethics and integrity are essentials, Whitney proved unfaithful to the trust reposed in him. It is instances such as this that tend to reflect unfairly on others occupying similar positions of responsibility. When the virtue of honesty becomes more dependably general there will be much less need for governmental supervision of individual and group conduct.

Why Not Boost American Travel?

HOTEL MANAGERS in this country are disturbed by the fact that American tourists spend eight times as much in foreign countries as foreign tourists spend in the United States. They are trying to win more people—both here and abroad—to travel in America.

This is a good time to press such a campaign. There are some Americans who will travel in Europe regardless of the political unrest and growing war alarms, but there are many others who hesitate to do so. These people should be persuaded to explore unfamiliar regions of their own vast country.

Foreigners have never traveled here in great numbers, possibly because the distances to be covered are so great and the cost consequently high. Also, we have never made much effort to draw them.

It would be worth while to offer special inducements to them and to outline special tours which will give a better insight into American characteristics than the usual quick glimpse of New York City, Niagara Falls and Hollywood.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THERE is little question in France that Eduoard Daladier is a strong man. The premier who has received a grant of dictatorial power till July 31 from the chamber of deputies is a man who attracts power unto himself.

He is the most feared of all the French by the Germans—for he has a genius for military organization. And he retains the post of minister of war as well as the premiership. Under him the French army has become the best cragnized of any in all Europe. That may help to keep the peace.

'STRIVEN UNCEASINGLY"

An excellent description of Daladier appears in The Living Age for April, translated from the Weltwoche (World Week), independent weekly in Zurich, Switzerland. Here are some pertinent excerpts from the article, by Arved Arenstam:

"Edouard Daladier represents the genuine French character. Whether he is actually as impetuous as he seems to be, or whether a certain weakness is hidden behind his harsh, almost brutal mask remains to be seen. But just now France inclines to the strong man interpretation.

"Daladier has been able to keep the army, the sacred defender of the nation, out of the recent heated political struggles . . .

"Daladier represents the 'national' idea. An ardent patriot, he wishes France to be strong. He is a realist who does not believe in the effectiveness of treaties, even when he himself has concluded them . . .

"He springs from the people. His father was a baker in the Vaucluse region, a wild, mountainous land, where the people lack the amiable attitude of other French regions: rather, they are like their region itself—rough, even somewhat wild. These men, of whom there are not a great many in France, can also hate.'

UNPRETENTIOUS

The article continues:

"Daladier himself hates snobs, inherited wealth, the glamor and idleness of society, the sensitive weaklings among his officers. He does not wish to appear distinguished; he remains what he is—a son of the people.

"One rarely encounters Daladier at fashionable Paris receptions. Nobody knew his wife, the daughter of a country doctor, who died two years ago, leaving him two sons . . . His manners are simple and natural. He is unfamiliar with the subtleties of the diplomatic language, which he detests . . .

"Before this man of the people both the marshals and all the generals of France stand at attention today. Daladier does not regard himself as an intruder into this circle. He served in the trenches with distinction for four years. He started at the bottom, became a sergeant, rose to the rank of captain. He is a soldier."

HIS POLITICAL SCHOOLING

Then, this is interesting:

"Daladier's efforts to get a good education led rather directly to his entrance into politics.

"At the Lycee in Lyons he met the man who later became his political mentor. Herriot, director of the school, interested himself in the young student, took him under his wing and paved the way for his future. Daladier's political concept the revolutionary doctrine of 1789- springs from Herriot's. It is a blend of nationalism and democracy.

"After the war, in the so-called khaki elections of 1919, he was elected for the first time to the chamber of deputies. He did not distinguish himself at once in the deputies. Herriot still overshadowed the entire Radical Socialist group (equivalent to our Democrats). Nobody could rise to the top unless Herriot desired it. Did the young Daladier wish to free himself from Herriot's grip? Does the present feud between the two men spring from that early urge of the younger man for independence?

"Daladier, stubborn and hotheaded, did free himself from Herriot. He is more a man of deeds and less of a talker than Herriot. He is strong-willed and not sentimental. Above all, he is younger. One day, when Herriot made good his threat to lay down the leadership of the party, 'Dala', as his friends call him, became his successor . . ."

THIRD TIME

This is Daladier's third premier ship.

The Popular Front emerged as victor of the elections of 1936. Blum, the hero of the day, called Daladier to his cabinet and entrusted him with control of the army . . ."

And now Daladier has a cabinet of his own, over which he rules with supreme power, and neither Blum nor his followers sit in it.

TIME TO CALL A HALT

More Needed Than 'Pump-Priming'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The day after the house of representatives virtually chloroformed President Roosevelt's government reorganization plan the New York stock market reacted quite bullishly.

This optimistic tendency has not been well maintained, however.

Even at first there seemed to be no particular reason for a favorable stock market response to the representatives' action on government reorganization. Some sorts of legislation can reasonably be expected to bear a relationship toward stock market prices, but not government reorganization legislation.

The short-lived New York market boomlet apparently was explainable on the ground that speculators saw, in the slapping down of the president on the reorganization issue, some promise of his subsequent slapping down on other issues.

But, at second thought, evidently they were not so sure, and the boomlet petered out pretty completely.

A NEW YORKER'S VIEW.

"After all," a market-minded representative from Manhattan remarked to me, "how can the stock-dealing public possibly take a cheerful view of the future, with our persistent federal deficits and our enormous and increasing national debt?"

Pump-priming!

"Did you ever prime a pump?" another representative, from out in the sticks, asked me.

"Probably not," he added. "All you know is how to turn on a faucet."

He did me an injustice. I HAVE primed a pump.

WHAT IT WILL PUMP UP?

"Well, then," continued this legislator, "since you HAVE primed one, you are aware that you've got to have fluid at the bottom of the well, or you can prime until you are black in the face and it will do you no good.

"All you will pump up is what you have primed in, maybe excepting a lot of sand and grit that will damage the pump's valves and gadgets, and make it work worse than it ever worked before. These faucet-twisters would do well to learn that before they put the thing hopelessly out of gear."

But may it not be frozen up down below?

IF "FROZEN"—

We talk aplenty about frozen capital.

And about pump-priming.

The two comparisons might advantageously be hooked together, perhaps.

A frozen-up pump cannot successfully be primed with more cold juice. Boiling hot liquid is required.

Now, how to hit on something hot?

HULL'S PLAN.

Secretary of State Hull has some hot dope, in his program of reciprocal tariff treaties.

His scheme is to create a foreign demand for American products. It involves the admission of certain foreign products into the United States, but if, with our intensive productive methods, we are unable to out-produce the remainder of the world our system certainly has been overadvertised.

The administration indorses the Hull plan, but only languidly. It does not, as it should, proclaim it as hot water on the frozen-up bottom of the well.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York proposes a liberal priming of hot water in the form of stimulation of Yankee trade with the Latin Americas through subsidies. It would cost considerably, but it would be hot water down the pump, not more cold water on top of an already frozen pool.

STEWART'S DIAGNOSIS.

Priming the pump is rather an old story.

It did not work in President Hoover's day.

It has frazzled out under President Roosevelt.

It is a good story as told by Secretary Hull, but Hull has not had much support. Maybe LaGuardia could put some "pep" into it.

La Guardia's plan is Hull's accentuated. The water's hotter.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, April 16, 1918.

Teaching of German was discontinued in Mansfield high school.

Farmers were urged to market all wheat in excess of seed requirements and family needs.

Theda Bara in "Cleopatra" was screen attraction at Opera House.

Friends arranged surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Lattimer, 129 Poplar street.

Mrs. Garfield Jones was taken home from Emergency hospital, following an operation.

Twenty Years Ago Tomorrow

Wednesday, April 17, 1918.

School board voted to issue $20,000 in bonds for new heating plant in Brinkerhoff school.

Mrs. Henry Them, of Wheeling, W. Va., was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swain.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elton Robertson, 85 Greenwood avenue.

Irwin Geddes, 91, died.

Rev. G. A. Kienle went to Chicago to visit his son Robert, student at Elmhurst college.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, April 16, 1933.

April showers dampened the Easter parade, but churches were filled.

Mrs. Hazel H. Stewart, wife of Howard Stewart, 161 Orange street, died.

Thief stole baggage of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Seidel (Arline Burkholder) as they started on honeymoon.

Miss Eva Statler and Albert J. Motter, Mansfield, were married at Byesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poth celebrated 51st wedding anniversary at their home, 26 Fair street.

Five Years Ago Tomorrow

Monday, April 17, 1933.

State highway employes started on a six hour, five day week by order of Governor White.

S. E. Forney, tax expert, addressed City Foremen's club at Leland hotel.

Mrs. Sam V. Fox and son Robert returned home after week in Columbus.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elton Robertson, 85 Greenwood avenue.

Mrs. Irilla Wappner, 177 South Diamond street, underwent operation at General hospital.

Listen, World!

You're Brave Enough To Take It All.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT HAS taken a long time to find the courage to tell you what I'm about to say—

And even yet, it's a bitter, hard thing to do . . . feeling the old agony swell again . . . and knowing, also, that many will think that I could not have loved him much, or I would not be able to put it into words.

But there is a strange thing about a job like this . . . a job which ministers to so much human misery. At first you give just small and measured portions of yourself. But after a while you see that you've no right to hold anything back—if the giving can help . . . that all experience, no matter how important, becomes a sort of communion . . . "the bread and wine" of life which decent folk should share.

And so I'm telling this—for the sake of those who may be passing through such hours too . . .

THE time had come. They'd waited as long as they dared . . . doing everything human power could do . . . hoping . . . hoping . . . But it was no use. They'd have to tell me that my boy would die. But how could they say this to me, who loved him with such fierce intensity that I'd not even thought it possible for us to part? How force such knowledge to my blind, drugged heart?

And yet it must be done. And so the gentle doctor asked if I'd come with him and rest. And, stupified with misery, I went—and sat there, hardly hearing, as his voice began.

"Life was a great thing," he said. "A great privilege. It was wonderful to see a life that had been lived—full."

(I waited — wondering dimly why he took this time to talk.)

"A life that had stood open to whatever came—not merely sunshine, but black storms as well. Lives that knew all there was to know—such lives were like deep reservoirs of strength to weaker ones. These people who had never known grief . . . whose years had brought them only easy job . . . these people were not happy, after all. Only the broken-hearted ones know how to live . . . only those who have had it all, know how to give—"

"Only the broken-hearted?" Why did the light go gray? What was he meaning . . . trying so hard to say? I rose . . . and swayed . . . then dimly heard him call . . .)

"Elsie, stand up! Be brave enough . . . to take it all!"

BE BRAVE enough to take it all! Often and often I've thought of those words since, thanking God for the blessed wisdom in that gentle doctor's heart . . . a wisdom that had realized that only a challenge would give me courage to face what had to come . . . or leave life worth the struggle I must make.

"Only the broken-hearted ones know how to give . . . only those who've had it all, know how to live."

So often we've railed against grief . . . crying that it has cheated us . . . crippled us . . . taking the meaning from life . . . But that was not so. Life was never really grown-up 'till grief had come. People had never lived 'till most of them had died . . . The grave was as vitally a part of life as the cradle. Out of them both—birth came.

DON'T FLY FROM SORROW, OR RAVE AND SOB AT GRIEF. STAND UP . . . GROW UP . . . BE BRAVE ENOUGH TO TAKE THE WHOLE OF LIFE!

(Copyright, 1938.)

What One Man Thinks

—By DAVID GIBSON

Most of those who pose as economists are in reality statisticians.

The best evidence favoring heredity is the fact that in 200 years' record of major horse racing events, not a single horse of unknown parentage has come in first.

Did you ever notice that when a doctor is paged at a theater, skating rink, ball game or race track, with the request that he call his office immediately, that it is always some doctor of whom nobody ever heard?

Skating.

SINCE mechanical, chemical and electrical science has been applied to refrigeration and the formation of a film of ice upon an interior level floor, skating has become an indoor sport independent of seasons, geography or climate.

Skating, as in the case of dancing long ago, is being developed as a fine art—solo or in figured groups, in fanciful costumes, lighting effects, and to the accompaniment of really good music.

Even outdoor skating always was the very poetry of motion; in swing and sway rhythm, to incredible speed of the body, and all on its own power.

Naturally, the perfection of modern skates to simplicity has added to the ease and popularity of the sport or art, just as you have a mind to term it—foot covering and skates are now sold in single pair units and at no more cost than a really good pair of shoes.

An indoor, artificially-iced floor has enabled the sale of skating privilege for small fees, to musical accompaniment and much after the manner of a dancing pavilion in a summer amusement park. It permits of games on skates to high tempo, adding the interest of contest and to an audience of paid admissions.

The Arena, Cleveland, recently completed, has an iced floor surface of about the area of six large tennis courts and an audience seating capacity of 7,000.

Carnival attractions have been held there with solo and group professional skaters, augmented by local amateurs—all in colorful costumes, overhead multi-colored spot and flood lights and to specially arranged music by a 45-piece symphony orchestra—all more elaborate and beautiful than ballet figure dancing on a huge stage, of which the French are so fond.

There is no sound to it all save the music—the under-floor having been effectively deadened.

Both the professionals and amateurs seemingly skate forward, backward or sideways with equal ease.

At two principal events that I attended, there was no jazz action or music, the latter being of a ballet character by Schubert, Delibes, Massenet, Strauss and even some of the dance tunes of Weber and Beethoven.

One ensemble setting was to the "Magic Fire Music" from Wagner's Walkuere—all to symbolic action—the skaters carrying huge, flaming torches.

Another huge and elaborate setting was to Tschaikowski's 4th Symphony.

And, by the way, some of the old classic and semi-classic numbers that were played by park bands to the point of absolute boredom, take on new life and interest when they accompany skating.

Skating is all a pastime or profession of youth, and youth in itself is beautiful to look upon.

Hometown History.

I RECEIVE a good many letters from newspaper writers, local historians and even libraries and institutions of my home town, Indianapolis, questioning me as to locations, dates and the identity of persons concerned in certain events.

These often recall co-related happening and people, I enjoy answering them, even though writing for the pleasure of writing on the part of a professional writer is a good deal like a mail carrier taking a walk.

I received one last week relative to Military Park, near my father's mills. I was born on the north side of this square—617 W. New York St., but the neighborhood has long since degenerated—the last time I passed my birthplace, about three years ago, and from the appearance of the folks seated on the porch and hanging out the windows, it was occupied by a family of blue-gummed Bushmen.

Only a block or two from this area was the birthplace of the American commercial food canning industry.

About 1861, Gilbert C. Van Camp established what became known as the Fruit House Grocery.

Perishables were purchased each day from the wagons of farmer-hucksters, and the women of the family conceived the idea of cooking and canning the fruit and vegetable leftovers at the end of the day in the kitchen of the Van Camp home next door, and for sale off the grocery shelves in winter.

This proved so profitably successful that the tail soon wagged the dog in the way of a backyard cannery with the product sold to many grocers under printed labels.

Within my memory the plant comprised a series of whitewashed wooden buildings around the corner on a railroad siding, and seasonably employed several hundred persons.

It is now known as the Van Camp Packing Co., occupies a huge, modern plant on the south side of Indianapolis with a nationally advertised and distributed product and all from a family back-kitchen start.

IN MY boyhood, I remember Military Park as the Sunday afternoon meeting of many small religious cults.

All of these meetings were at the same time, and each group tried to drown out the other by loud preaching and singing.

One group, by some influence, had erected quite a high wooden platform, with a railing around it, for the preacher, religious leaders, a choir of a dozen voices and a parlor organ which was carried back and forth from a house in the neighborhood.

"Tiny" Odare, a young woman weighing more than 325 pounds, played this organ and led the singing.

"Tiny," while in song, puckered her very fat lips until the opening between them was round, no larger than a lead pencil, and to very shrill tones—almost whistle-like.

One Sunday afternoon, "Tiny" had just taken her place at the organ to begin the services with a solo, "Beautiful Words of Life," a popular evangelistic hymn of that day.

She had just finished the first verse when the platform broke down, the floor became funnel-like in form with the preacher, religious leaders and choir all piled in on top of "Tiny" and the organ and all, amid sounds of cracking timbers and human screams.

"Tiny's" 325 pounds evidently acted as padding; for no one was injured.

But it was the popular park amusement feature for the gathered throng on that particular Sunday afternoon.

An autopsy on the wreckage held by a good mechanic indicated that the joist had been nearly and neatly severed underneath by a sharp cross-cut saw.
